QUEBEC, Monday, July 27.

The Canadian Steamship Company's screw steamer North American, from Liverpool on Wednesday, the 15th inst., arrived at this port on Sunday night.

The advices by this arrival are four days later than those by the Cleopatra at St. Johns, and Asia at New York, and are of an highly important character.

The R. M. Steamship Europa, Capt. Lott, from Boston July 1, arrived at Liverpool on the evening of the 11th.

The steamship Indian, from Montreal and Quebec on the 5th inst., and the Kangaroo, from Portland, via Halifax and St. Johns, N. F., arrived at Liverpool on the 12th.

The new steamer Kangaroo left Liverpool one hour before the North American, and the Ariel and Washington were to leave Southampton the same day.

The screw steamship Indian arrived at Liverpool, from Quebec, in nine days and eleven hours.

The steamship Belgique arrived at Southampton on the 14th inst.

The great feature of the news by the North American consists in the advices received from India by the arrival of the overland mail. The mutiny among the Sepoys is represented to have spread to an alarming extent.

Twenty-three native regiments had joined in it. The insurgents had been defeated outside the walls of Delhi, but still held possession of the city.

General Anson, the British Commander-in-Chief, had died of cholera.

Sir Colin Campbell had started for Delhi to succeed him.

The news from China contains no features of unusual interest.

Italy and Spain were tranquil.

India.

The Indian mail had arrived in London. The dates from Calcutta were to the 7th of June, and from Bombay to the 18th.

The disaffection was entirely confined to the army. The native troops had been disarmed at most of the stations in the Punjaub. The intelligence from Delhi, which is to the 8th June, states that the heights around the town were in possession of the Government troops, who had attacked and driven the rebels within the walls and captured twenty-six guns.

The fall of Delhi was looked for hourly when the Indian mail left.

The loss to the Bengal army by the mutiny and other causes was nearly thirty thousand men.

It is believed that the crisis was passed.

At the latest accounts there was a rumor of a panic and desertions amongst the insurgents at Delhi.

The British Government was acting vigorously in Indian affairs, and Sir COLIN CAMPBELL left on a few hours' notice.

The Bombay Money market was uneasy. There was almost a panic.

China.

Hong Kong dates were to the 25th of May.

The American steam frigate San Jacinto, and the English gun boats had gone up the Canton River to attack the Junks.

At Foo-Chow-Foo all was quiet, and tea was coming down freely. The Rebels had been defeated there.

Trade at Shanghai and Hong-Kong was quiet. In Freights, nothing was doing. Exchange on London at Shanghai was at 5s. 3d.@5s. 3¾d. The American house of Messrs. King & Co., at Hong-Kong, had suspended. The liabilities, mostly to Chinese, amounted to $150,000.

In Bombay and Madras the armies continued firmly loyal.

The telegraph wires between Agra and Delhi had been cut by the insurgents.

The steamship Avon, from Bombay, with the mails for China, was wrecked on the coast of Ceylon, on the 8th of June. Her passengers and the mails and specie were saved. The cargo was valued at nearly $300,000, and, with the vessel, was lost.

At Calcutta, little was doing in imports. Sterling exchange was at 2¼.

Great Britain.

In the House of Commons, Colonel LINDSAY moved for the production of Secretary MARCY's letter on privateering; but Lord PALMERSTON said that it was not officially in the hands of the British Government, and could not be produced. After a few remarks from Lord JOHN RUSSELL and Sir CHARLES NAPIER, as to the ill effects of the new engagement in England, the motion was withdrawn.

An address to the Queen was adopted, praying for the use of all means to put down the African Slave trade, and secure the fulfillment of the treaties.

In the House of Commons, Mr. DILLWYN gave notice of a motion that the Clerk of the House in administering the oath to members be authorized to omit from the oath of abjuration the words: "On the true faith of a Christian".

Mr. GRIFFITHS gave notice of a resolution that no hostile steps ought to be taken by the Government with regard to the execution of the Suez Canal.

On Tuesday Colonel LINDSAY moved an address for copies of Secretary MARCY's letter to the French Government in answer to the resolution of the Paris Conference on the subject of privateering. Lord PALMERSTON said that it was not usual for Government to produce correspondence between two independent Governments. Secretary MARCY's letter to the French Government was not officially in the hands of the British Government and could not be produced. The communication of the American to the French Government had been made by the last Government of the United States, but the present Administration had intimated that they did not wish for an answer to it; and under the circumstances the House would feel that the question could not be discussed properly. He therefore hoped it would not be pressed. Lord JOHN RUSSELL thought the Government could make a statement of the grounds upon which the declaration had been entered into. He was afraid the consequences would be very serious, but England was bound to them now. Sir CHARLES NAPIER thought the engagement could not be broken, and would necessitate the blockading of every port of the enemy. The motion was withdrawn.

Lord PALMERSTON pledged the Government to carry out the request.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce gave a brilliant banquet to the officers of the Niagara.

France.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says the conspiracy recently discovered was the most serious of any we have knowledge of, in the character of the persons concerned, the extent of its ramifications, and the objects proposed—which included the assassination of the Emperor and a revolution throughout Southern Europe. The members of a Provisional Government were already named by the conspirators and the plans were pretty near perfected when the discovery was made.

The declared hostility of Lord PALMERSTON to the Suez Canal, produced a considerable sensation in France, and the Paris journals are pretty severe in their comments on it.

It is stated that the Duke DE GRAMMONT, the French Minister at Turin, will succeed Count MERSY in the mission to Russia.

The details of the recently discovered conspiracy in Paris were startling out.

Queen VICTORIA will visit Fontainbleau in September.

Spain.

According to the latest accounts from Spain, tranquillity was everywhere established, and courts martial were in full operation.

Italy.

Nothing has been received from Italy but lengthy details of revolutionary movements already anticipated.

The Two Sicilies were tranquil.

Col. PISACANE, the chief of the insurgents in Calabria, was under arrest.

The Queen of Naples was not expected to live.

It is alleged that MAZZINI escaped from Italy in a ship carrying the American flag.

Turkey.

It is denied that the Porte had issued a protest against the occupation of Perim by the English. FRECHIN PACHA simply had a personal interview with Lord STRATFORD DE REDCLIFFE on the subject.

Egypt.

A despatch announces that the Russians have occupied Gagny on the frontier of Abasca.

Persia.

It was stated, but doubted, that the Shah had made a requisition on General GORMAN for a column of troops to enforce the evacuation of Herat, which was held by his sovereign, who, disapproving of the terms of peace, refused to withdraw.

Australia.

Dates from Melbourne to the 26th of April, and over sixty thousand ounces of gold, have been received by the ship James Baines.

The O'Shaughnessy Ministry had resigned.

A spirited speculation in grain was going on in the Melbourne markets, which otherwise were dull.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Liverpool Cotton Market.

The Liverpool COTTON market was buoyant. The newspapers report all qualities of American advanced 1-16d., while Messrs. RICHARDSON, SPENCE & Co. quote the market firm at the rates current previous to the sailing of the Asia. The sales of the three days were 28,000 bales, including 1,600 on speculation and 1,600 for export.

Liverpool Breadstuffs Market.

Messrs. RICHARDSON, SPENCE & Co. quote the BREADSTUFFS market declining. FLOUR very dull and 6d. lower. WHEAT inanimate, and quotations nominal; Red 2d. lower. CORN declined 6d., but closed firm. Quotations: Western Canal Flour 30s. 6d.@31s. 6d.; Ohio, 32s.@32s.; Philadelphia and Baltimore, 31s@32s.; Red WHEAT, 8s. 6d.@9s. 6d.; White, 9s. 6d.@10s.; Mixed and Yellow CORN, 33s. 6d. The weather had been favorable for the crops.

Liverpool Provision Market.

The Liverpool Provision Market was generally steady. BEEF buoyant. PORK heavy. BACON heavy and 2s. lower. LARD quiet. BIGLAND, ATTEA & Co. quote BEEF advanced 10s., under an active speculative inquiry.

Liverpool Produce Market.

ASHES were quiet at 44s. for Pots. SUGAR was dull. RICE was dull. SPIRITS OF TURPENTINE were steady. TALLOW unchanged. COFFEE firm. RICE quiet.

London Markets.

SUGAR dull, at a decline of 6d.@1s. COFFEE quiet, and all qualities slightly declined. TEA firm and active, at 1s. 2d @1s. 3½d. RICE dull.

Glasgow Market.

In the Glasgow Market PIG IRON was flat at 73s.

Birmingham Market.

The Birmingham Market was very firm, with large orders from the United States.

London Money Market.

The London Money Market was active at unchanged rates. The news from India caused a decline in CONSOLS, which were quoted on Friday at 91@91¼. A reduction in the rate of discount was expected by the Bank of England on Thursday.

THE LATEST.

LIVERPOOL, Wednesday, July 15—1 P. M.

Messrs. RICHARDSON, SPENCE & Co., report COTTON steady.—Sales about $10,000 bales. BREADSTUFFS very quiet. PROVISIONS unchanged.

LONDON, Saturday—12 M.

CONSOLS for money closed at 91¾@91⅞.

VISIT OF THE EXCISE COMMISSIONERS INTO THE FIRST WARD.—The Excise Commissioners yesterday afternoon visited Greenwich, Washington and other streets of the First Ward, that, from a personal inspection, they might judge whether the liquor dealers there kept such houses as made them worthy of a renewal of their licenses. With a Deputy Sheriff and a couple of police-officers, they first passed through Greenwich-street, then returning through Washington, looking through the intersecting streets as they went. The number of every liquor-shop that remains unlicensed was marked down, and opposite each the word "good," "bad," or "doubtful," as the police officers gave their opinions.

In Washington-street, the party stopped at the grocery and liquor store of Councilman JOHN VON GLAHN. The Councilman was dispensing from the bar when his visitors entered, but immediately advanced to meet them. He said he had a license, and afterwards invited all to test the quality of his liquors, wines and lager bier, some of which he could recommend to their favorable attention. Of course the Commissioners left, fully satisfied that VON GLAHN's was a proper house.

By this time, the object of the visitors had become generally known in the vicinity. A crowd followed them from door to door, and no little excitement in some of the lager-bier saloons and sailor dance-houses was consequent. Most of them are also houses of ill-fame, and the efforts of some of the proprietors to disguise their real character was amusing. At "Venus Hall," a most notorious basement brothel, the wretched girls, on the approach of the Commissioners, scampered away into the back apartments with great speed. The liquor bottles were removed out of sight, and the landlord, looking as innocent as possible, said he should not apply for a license, for he sold nothing but lager bier, soda water, and such like light drinks. In others of the low cellars, however, no attempt was made to conceal their business. The girls, in immodest dress, sat or lay lounging about, and by their actions and language, betrayed their character. The proprietors nearly all said that they had no licenses and required none.

The Commissioners spent about a couple of hours in the visit, and will renew their investigations in a short time. From what they saw they have decided to license only about one-seventeenth of the places visited yesterday. Not one of the cellars—with the exception of the eating-saloons—will get their sanction to sell liquor, and if the Police are vigilant there is hope that that part of the Ward will be washed of this uncleanliness.

The Commissioners complain that the short time allowed them for granting licenses, 50 days, is not sufficient and say that their duties could be more efficiently performed if the time was extended, so that they could personally examine into the character of the houses for which licenses are asked. They meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock to hear applications.

COMMISSIONERS OF HEALTH.—This Board met yesterday at 12 M. in the City Library room—present President PHILLIPS in the Chair, Commissioners MITLER, THOMPSON and ROCKWELL; WALTER F. CONGDLIN, Secretary.

The petition of brig Fredonia, from Trinidad de Cuba, for permission to come to City, was referred to the Health Officer with power.

Petition of brig John Boynton, for petition to come to upper Quarantine, was similarly disposed of.

On motion, adjourned.

THE ALLEGED SLAVER MERCHANTS.—Efforts are making to obtain the release of the schooner Merchants, and yesterday the following sureties were offered: AUGUSTUS R. LANE, residence No. 303 Monroe-street, business, ship smith, No. 244 South-street; and JESSE A. BRADDOCK, residence No. 206 Monroe-street, business, sail-maker, No. 323 South-street. Each of these parties swore he was worth more than $2,000. They are held in case the judgment of the Court should be against her. A motion to discharge the vessel from arrest will be made to-day.

THE METROPOLITAN POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

NO QUORUM YET.

Probable Mandamus against Mayor Wood and Powell and Commissioner Chelwell.

The Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners did not meet yesterday morning. Mr. CHELWELL and the two Mayors, WOOD and POWELL, were not there, and there was not, therefore, a quorum present. It is said that Mr. CHELWELL, who is believed to be in Connecticut, is sick and cannot attend, but that statement is not credited among those who are familiar with the peculiar condition of things at No. 38 White-street. At all events the two Mayors do not put in a plea of illness, and yet they remain away, and by so doing prevent progress in the organization of the Department. The whole subject was pretty generally discussed this morning, by gentlemen in the Commissioners' rooms, during which the power to compel attendance was canvassed. It was held by those who are familiar with such matters, that there are several cases in the books where nonfeasance is held to be as good ground for removal as malfeasance; and it was thought that if Mr. CHELWELL's illness became chronic, to apply the rule or principle to his particular case. It was thought, also, that a mandamus might influence Mayors WOOD and POWELL to take a morning walk to White-street. It was recommended on the authority of the Mayor's success with it in compelling Judge RUSSELL to appear and sit with him in the old Board of Police Commissioners. It is not probable, however, that such a course will be tried for several days to come. Meanwhile the business of the Board remains in statu quo.

The Special Police.

The number of Special Policemen who congregate at and in the vicinity of No. 38 White-street and make anxious inquiry relative to when they will get their pay, is still very large. They always receive assurances that their cases will be attended to as soon as possible.

Complaint against Deputy Carpenter.

Yesterday afternoon, LEROY G. CLARK, CORNELIUS B. TITUS, and two others, made affidavits against Deputy Superintendent DANIEL CARPENTER, for using abusive language concerning Mayor WOOD. The complainants were members of the old Police Department, and reported themselves, among some forty others, for duty, to Deputy CARPENTER, on Saturday last, and while in conversation they allege that CARPENTER abused Mayor WOOD, and to such an extent that they deemed it proper to call him to account before the Commissioners. The following is the charge, together with the affidavits:

NEW-YORK, July 27th, 1857.

To the Commissioners of Police of the Metropolitan Police District:

In accordance with section 6, article 1st., of the Rules and Regulations for the government of the Board of Police adopted by the Board of Commissioners of the Metropolitan Police District, in accordance with section No. 7 of an act to establish a Metropolitan Police District, and to provide for the government thereof, passed April 15th, 1857, the following charges are hereby preferred against DANIEL CARPENTER, a Deputy-Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police, located in the City of New-York.

CHARGE,

Conduct unbecoming an officer.

SPECIFICATIONS.

First. That on the 3d day of July, 1857, CORNELIUS B. TITUS, claiming to be a policeman, reported himself to said CARPENTER at his office for duty, when said CARPENTER treated him in an uncourteous and uncivil manner, tending to degrade him in the eyes of the persons then present, in violation of section 3 of the Rules and Regulations.

Second, that the said CARPENTER, on the morning of July 25, 1857, while in his office, and in the presence of LEROY T. CLARK, and other persons, did use harsh, violent, coarse, profane and insolent language of and to, and concerning the Mayor of the City of New-York, a superior officer; calling the said Mayor a black-hearted, vicious, mean, low, scurrilous and contemptible scoundrel, tending thereby to bring the authority of said Mayor, as a Commissioner of Police, into contempt, and to create insubordination in the Police Department; in violation of section 3 and 38 of the Rules and Regulations of the general government of the Metropolitan Police District, as more fully appears in the affidavits of CORNELIUS B. TITUS, LEROY T. CLARK, ARTHUR MCMANUS and JOHN DUGAN, hereto appended.

WILLIAM MACKELLAR, Plaintiff's Attorney.

AFFIDAVITS.

City and County of New-York, ss.—LEROY T. CLARK, residing at No. 75 Montgomery-street, being duly sworn, says—That this morning the 25th of July 1857, at about noon, deponent in company with JOHN DUGAN, residing at No. 268 Thirty-fifth-street, and another, MCMANUS, residing at No. 49 Rose-street, went to No. 86 Franklin-street, the office of the Deputy-Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police Department, and when we arrived there in said office, we spoke to Deputy-Superintendent CARPENTER respecting ourselves. He, said CARPENTER, answered that he did not recognize us as officers of the Police, but only looked upon us as old associates. He, the said CARPENTER, further stated, that there was only one man to blame for all that had happened, and that man was the black-hearted, vicious, mean, low, scurrilous, contemptible Mayor of this City.

LEROY T. CLARK.

Sworn before me this 25th of July, 1857.

W. H. STEPHENS, Commissioner of Deeds.

City and County of New-York, ss.—John Dugan, residing at No. 268 Thirty-fifth-street, and Austin McManus, residing at No. 49 Rose-street, being duly sworn, says:

That deponents have read the above affidavits, and know of their own knowledge the same to be true and correct in every instance. AUSTIN MCMANUS.

JOHN DUGAN.

Sworn before me this 25th day of July, 1857.

W. H. STEPHENS, Com. of Deeds.

City and County of New-York, ss.—CORNELIUS B. TITUS, being duly sworn, deposed and says, that on the 3d day of July, inst., he reported himself for duty to the Deputy-Superintendent of Police, at No. 38 White-street, when DANIEL CARPENTER said: I suppose Mayor WOOD will report to-morrow, that it was the Mayor's fault, that he had led the men astray, and had deceived them, and that he was tyrannical and overbearing, and, d—n him, he ought to go to ——. At this point some person present interrupted him, and remarked that he should not speak so; when CARPENTER replied: Yes, that was the way to talk.

Deponent was also present on Saturday last, at No. 86 Franklin-street, and did there hear said CARPENTER use the following language: That the men had only the Mayor to blame for being out of employment, that he had a black heart, and that men who hung upon the skirts of such men should not expect anything. CORNELIUS B. TITUS.

Sworn before me this 25th July, 1857.

W. H. STEPHENS, Commissioner of Deeds.

NEWS FROM CALIFORNIA.

Result of the Democratic Primary Election—The Republican Convention—The People's Party—Excitement on Fremont's Mariposa Claim—Quarrel between Broderick and Stebbins—The State Industrial Fair—Business and the Mines—Arrival of Guano.

The most important event that has occurred in California during the fortnight ending June 6, is the Democratic Primary Election for delegates to the Sacramento Nominating Convention. The contest was interesting, inasmuch as it was understood to involve the question of sustaining the appointments for this State made by the President. Senator BRODERICK having been disappointed in getting the offices for his friends, was anxious to convince the Executive that the persons appointed were not acceptable to the Democracy of the State. But in this attempt he has been completely foiled. Of the members elected to the Convention, but forty-two are understood to be favorable to MCCORKLE, BRODERICK's candidate for Governor; while WELLER, his opponent, has 134, and NUGENT 11, friends. There is little doubt that WELLER will be nominated on the first ballot of the Convention, which meets on the 14th July. As soon as this result was generally known, the State Journal, BRODERICK's organ, par excellence, was pounced upon by attachments to the amount of over thirty thousand dollars, and its publication in consequence suspended. It is, in all probability, but a temporary stoppage, as we already hear rumors of its speedy revival.

The Republicans have also begun to elect the delegates to their Convention, which is to assemble at Sacramento on the 8th July. Capt. THOS. GRAY, EDWARD STANLY, Col. E. D. BAKER, and several others, are spoken of as the Gubernatorial candidate of this party. It is impossible to tell in whose favor the chances are.

Besides the nominees of these two parties, there is generally a running a third and independent candidate by the "Reformers," or "People's Party." It is probable that such a one, if he could unite the elements of the American organization, and the reformists, in his support, would be elected. Col. J. S. WATKINS and EDWARD STANLY are now generally looked to as the most available men to lead in such a movement.

Considerable feeling has been manifested latterly by the miners on FREMONT's Mariposa claim. Meetings have been held, and resolutions denunciatory of FREMONT and his agents, PALMER, COOX & Co., passed; and the miners declare it is their fixed intention to resist the encroachments of FREMONT and his agents to the bitter end. In the case, also, of the Merced Mining Company vs. JOHN C. FREMONT, the Supreme Court of the State has granted a perpetual injunction upon FREMONT, preventing him from interfering with the operations of the above Mining Company, which already has some $800,000 invested in works for taking out gold.

The California Supreme Court has revised and reversed a decision lately made by it, which seriously affected the value of the San Francisco Bonds. The Court now holds that that section of the Consolidation bill regulating the payment to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund for the gradual extinguishment of the debt, is unconstitutional and void, as it interferes with the vested rights of the bondholders, and that the payment of the $50,000 per annum for that purpose must continue as before the Consolidation Bill passed.

The "Stamp Act" passed by the last Legislature went into effect on the 1st of July. By it, all exchange, drafts, &c., drawn upon parties out of the State, are taxed by stamps, as are policies of insurance, passage tickets abroad, professional licenses, and like documents. The bill is very obnoxious to the people in San Francisco.

Business continues to be unusually depressed in San Francisco, and several of the heaviest houses have been forced to suspend. In these times of difficulty, the outrageous features of our Attachment, Insolvent, and Homestead Laws, have been prominently brought into notice, and a general determination to have them remedied has been awakened. At present they but offer opportunities and premiums for the perpetration of rascality and fraud.

DAVID C. BRODERICK, U. S. Senator from California, had a personal difficulty on the 1st inst., with J. W. STEBBINS, ex member of the State Senate from Yuba, Stebbins formerly supported BRODERICK, but lately has changed his position on account of some real or supposed grievance. The two met in the office of a third party in this city, when, after some hard words, BRODERICK struck STEBBINS in the face with his walking cane. Bystanders instantly interfered and prevented further hostilities.

Considerable attention is being attracted to the Grand State Industrial Fair which is to be held in San Francisco on the 7th of December. A suitable building is to be constructed for the reception of articles for exhibition, and an interesting display is expected. The occasion will doubtless be taken advantage of by persons abroad interested in the introduction of new machinery, improved implements, &c., who will be afforded a desirable opportunity for bringing them before the public.

No great preparations were made in San Francisco for the celebration of the Fourth of July. The embarrassed position of the municipal treasury rendered it impossible for the Supervisors to make any considerable appropriation for the occasion, and no united action has been taken by the citizens. Several excursions were projected, and the day was to be engaged in a quiet manner, by a general cessation of business on the part of the people. In other portions of the State more patriotism is exhibited, and preparations have been made for the delivery of the usual orations, &c. In Sacramento, four orators are to hold forth.

Mining is carried on as successfully as ever, and new discoveries are constantly chronicled. Attention of capitalists is still being diverted to other enterprises, and veins long since abandoned, for want of money to explore them, are being worked to advantage. The facilities for procuring the requisite materials for quartz crushing are far greater than ever before, and the machinery itself being simplified and effective, companies engaged in this branch of mining are generally doing better than ever before. The Quartz Miners' Association adjourned sine die on the 16th.

Great interest still continues to be felt in mountain wagon roads, and men and money are at work. Stage coaches now run regularly between Placerville and Carson Valley. Contracts for grading the more difficult sections of the route have been let, and in a few weeks a good road will be ready to connect with the National Road that is to have its terminus in Honey Lake Valley. The "Big Tree" route, as also the Oroville route, are both feasible, and over them stages have been driven with comparatively little difficulty.

The San Francisco Herald has the following paragraph:

The clipper-schooner Caroline E. Foote, Capt. A. J. Moore, arrived yesterday from Elide Island (Lower California), with a cargo of 120 tons guano. The guano has been tested and found superior to the Peruvian guano. This is the first cargo ever taken from that Island, which is claimed by Capt. J. R. G. ISAAC and others. There are large quantities of it upon the Island, and there is no doubt but it will prove a profitable speculation to those engaged in the enterprise. Capt. ISAAC, Santa E. Wooldridge, Esq., and several other gentlemen returned by the Caroline E. Foote from a visit to that Island.

NEWS FROM OREGON.

Effort to Introduce Slavery—Quick Passage from New-York—Preparations of the Indians for Another War.

Advices from Oregon Territory are to the 20th of June. The people of Oregon, having determined to come into the Union as a State, an effort is being made to engraft in the Constitution a provision to recognize Slavery. Messrs. HALL & GILES have issued a prospectus for a new Democratic paper to advocate this policy, to be published in Benton County.

The bark C. E. Tilton arrived in Columbia River in 116 days from New-York, being the quickest trip ever made.

The Oregonian of the 13th June says:

We have private letters from the Dalles, the import of which is, that the Indians have fired upon the whites several times recently, between the Dalles and Walla Walla. BROCK WHEELER, the Walla Walla chief, had been arrested and placed in the guardhouse at the Dalles. It is the general opinion of those acquainted with the facts, that the Indians are concentrating at some point in the mountains, preparatory to recommencing the war again, as soon as the fishing season is over.

From Umpqua, O. T., we learn that apprehensions were entertained there of an Indian outbreak. The Rogue River Indians, headed by their chief, JOHN, had left their new reservation and were returning to their old hunting grounds. The garrison at Umpqua, numbering only twenty-five soldiers, was too weak to hinder the Indian march, or perhaps to preserve itself.

The Puget Sound Indians are quiet, but large bands of Northerners still hang about the English side, and continue to annoy the settlers by crossing to our side. Major HALLECK was in chase of some twelve or fifteen canoes that had come across and took a canoe with the crew of the Sound Indians, and either murdered or carried them off as slaves. The Major was on board the United States cutter Jefferson Davis, with some regulars, that being the only means he could command to protect the frontier; and that is of but little use at this time of the year, on account of the frequent calms. A number of families had left Whidley's Island and other parts of the frontier and moved up the Sound; the Northerners say that before they return home in the Fall they will have three American heads for each one of their people that was killed last Winter by the Massachusetts; they have lately killed and taken away a number of our Indians, and it is fully believed that they will carry their threats into execution against the whites, unless a war steamer is sent to protect the frontiers.

FAIRFAX MORESBY,
Commander H. M. Sloop Sappho.

HER MAJESTY'S SLOOP SAPPHO,
BYRAM COVE, May, 15 1857.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that on the 8th instant I proceeded with the launch and gig of this ship to the Lemon Bay, in pursuance of your instructions, and found the Spanish brig Panchita in the harbor, in charge of a British officer, taking in water. On my way to which vessel I met the master, to whom I expressed a wish to see the papers of the vessel, which he declined, on the ground of being in charge of the vessel, without the consent of his crew, who had proceeded, first to a Portuguese [illegible] where three of his crew lay sick; having seen these, I was still suspected by the master of the Panchita and a Mr. Rickaby, agent for Pandelaki & Co., as well as by Mr. Frederick Wells, mate of her Majesty's sloop under my command—on board the Panchita, where on continuing the matter I found the crew not interested, several men not being able to answer the names stated to belong to them on the master list, the master appearing to know his own crew. I then asked Pantagalon to look into the hold; the master refused, though having previously stated in the presence of Mr. Rickaby that he had no objection to my looking, provided that I did not go down. These circumstances confirming the opinion that I had already conceived of the Panchita being employed in illegal traffic of slaves, induced me to detain the vessel, the master that I considered it my duty to detain him, with a view to give him over to the first American man-of-war I could meet, on which the master threw up all further charge of the vessel, informing me that he did not know what was in his hold, and saying he wished to have a correct list taken, which, on the 11th, was done, (10th, Sunday, intervening,) when was found, as by the accompanying account.

The vast quantity of fresh water still further corroborating my suspicions, I have taken upon myself the great responsibility of sending the said Panchita to New-York for the decision of the United States authorities.

This I do in perfect knowledge of the importance of the step I take, incited thereto by the unfortunate fate of her vast cargoes of anything like an American naval authority, and that, in consequence of the Panchita's detention, may be prolonged to an indefinite period; and further, by the firm conviction that, if some steps be not taken, there is nothing whatever to prevent the American flag from sanctioning any vessel, openly, in the eyes of the world, equipping and fitting with slaves in any part of the African Coast, rendering not only the treaty between Great Britain and the United States a dead letter, but making all other treaties with whatever nation, just the value of so many scraps.

I have again heartily deplore the singular absence of all American naval force, which has thrown on my shoulders this onerous duty, almost more than their share and trust, under the circumstances. I may look for your approval and support in moving my Lord's Commissioners of the Admiralty to countenance the steps I have taken, solely with the view to prevent the wholesale pressure of the nefarious trade I am here to put a stop to by every means in my power.

The Panchita's requiring some ballast and a trifling refit, (being ill-found to a degree unusual in an American merchant vessel,) will not start till on or about the 20th inst. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

FAIRFAX MORESBY, Commander.

[SCORT.]

We, the undersigned, with the captain of the American bark Panchita, and at his own request, have taken a strict and careful account of all the goods contained in the hold of the said bark, and find as follows, viz.:

FRED'K B. SLADDEN, Master of Panchita.

DUPLICATE.

This is to certify that I detained the American bark Panchita, on suspicion of being engaged in the Slave-trade, and in the absence of any American man-of-war, to whom reference might be made—have sent her to New-York for the decision of the United States authorities.

Given on board Her Majesty's ship Sappho, this 15th day of May, 1857.

FAIRFAX MORESBY, Commander,
Her Majesty's ship Sappho.

DUPLICATE.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned, were present during the time that Captain Moresby was questioning the crew of the American bark Panchita, (with the consent of the captain,) on the afternoon of the 9th instant, and that the crew list was not found to be correct. Also, that some of the men could not answer to their names when called.

Given under our hands, on board the Panchita, the 11th day of May, 1857.

SCHEDULE B.

MR. CAPTAIN SLADDEN: The vessel now being ready, and as I have concluded my affairs in this river for the moment, I wish, in accordance with my charter party, to continue my business on the coast; consequently, I wish you to write me, stating when the vessel will be ready to sail.

A. C. DE MESQUITA.

F. B. SLADDEN, Captain bark Panchita: This evening I start in the Portuguese schooner Rival for the northern ports, to conclude the purchase of your cargo, which will consist of dye-woods, copper, gum and oil. To-morrow you will proceed with the bark under your command to Cabenda. On board the bark you have sufficient rum to purchase from twenty to twenty-five piece palm oil, as, also, some gum copal, and for which I have already informed you respecting the measures and prices at which these goods should be purchased. I think that in forty or fifty days the bark will be entirely loaded and ready to sail for New-York. As soon as I obtain fifty tons of wood I will immediately advise you that you may come to Loanda, in order to receive it. I trust that you are getting better, as also your crew. In case you should want more copper for the service of the vessel, you have but to mention it. Mr. Samuel Funce, of Cabenda, to whom, by this opportunity, I write, recommending that he should do everything he can to be useful to you in anything you may require. I have nothing further to add, confiding in your zeal and activity in everything that comes under your charge.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

A. C. DE MESQUITA.

AMERICAN BARK PANCHITA,
PONTA DE LENHA, May 8, 1857.

A. C. MESQUITA—Sir: Yours of this date came on board at 9 A. M., to which I beg to inform you I shall attend strictly to your instructions with regard to the purchase or trade of my homeward cargo. I have only further to state, that the Panchita will be ready for sea, and proceed to Cabenda to-morrow morning (10th). The provisions are stowed, and ballast on board, remaining only for you to attend to place on board the Cabenda men to-night, my crew, as you are aware, being unfit to work, having the African fever. I am, yours,

F. B. SLADDEN.

PONTA DE LENHA, May 16, 1857.

A. C. MESQUITA, Esq.—Sir: You will observe by the charter party between yourself and F. B. Sladden paid to me drafts on the United States every two months to date. I have not received any since December 26, 1856. I beg you will now fulfill your agreement before the Panchita sails for New-York, to which port she is now going to proceed. Yours,

F. B. SLADDEN.

PONTA DE LENHA, May 14, 1857.

Capt. F. B. SLADDEN, Bark Panchita: Your favor to day has been duly received and contents known. I [illegible]

[illegible] Court of Common Pleas for the City and County of New-York.—John P. Weeks vs. Odoaine and Ireland. Depositions with Fairfax Moresby, City, County and State of New-York, ss.—Arthur J. Ireland, being sworn, maketh oath and saith—That he is an assistant surgeon in Her Britannic Majesty's naval service; that he was attached to the British vessel-of-war Sappho, on the coast of Africa, in May last; she then lying off Shark's Point, near Ponta de Lenha; that deponent was ordered to go on board of the brig Panchita, at the same time Lieutenant Odevaine was put in charge of her, as referred to in his affidavit hereto annexed, and which this deponent has read; that deponent was directed to go on board simply in his professional capacity as surgeon, and he says he was so on board only, and came in her to New-York in that capacity, and took no command or charge of her at any time; that he did not ever see the said Panchita until after she had been overhauled and her master had abandoned his command of her as detailed in Lieutenant Odevaine's said affidavit; and he says that the contents of such affidavit are true. And this deponent says that after the said Panchita was taken in charge by the United States Marshal, and libeled by the United States District Attorney, and on the 10th day of July, inst., this deponent was arrested and held to bail by the Sheriff of New-York in the action in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars; that this deponent is an utter stranger in the United States of America, being without pecuniary means, not known, and had it not been for the British Consul and the standing counsel of the Consulate in New-York, this deponent would have been at this time in prison under such his arrest in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars. And this deponent further says that he has not at present put in his answer to the action, nor has his bail justified.

A. J. IRELAND, Assistant-Surgeon R. N.

Sworn at the City of New-York, the twenty-first day of July, 1857, before me, DANIEL SEIXAS, Commissioner of Deeds.

POINTS FOR LIEUTENANT ODEVAINE AND ASSISTANT-SURGEON IRELAND.

1. Vessel, apparel and furniture are here, safe, so that the value is not to be taken into account. Not as if she had been lost by us.

Cargo, evidently belongs to the charterer, Mesquita, so that neither that, nor any damages connected with it, can be claimed by plaintiff.

Then, it is reduced to the point of injury arising to plaintiff in relation to monthly payment of charter money, say $700 a month.

Fifty-six days is the extent of time she was in charge of Lieutenant Odevaine; say $1,306 66.

But, even supposing a wrongful act by us, we are amenable to the charterer, not to the owner. And this very charterer, Mesquita, did claim ownership. A wrongful act by a third party can never annul or affect a charter party. The charterer is the owner for the time being, and he must be the complaining party against us. See 100 Mesquita's letter, in schedule, under date of May 16, 1857, and which was after the alleged seizure, recognising his liability and promising to settle in New-York. Seizure by Commander Moresby was on May 9. Try this two ways:

1. If this vessel was seized because there was something wrong about her—a wrong encouraged or caused by Mesquita, then he, the charterer, cannot make that a ground for getting rid of the charter party, and he would be liable to the real owner.

2. If there was no lawful cause for seizure, then the case stands as between owner and charterer, as though nothing had transpired; and the charter party remains intact. The owner has performed all he covenanted to do; the private wrong done by a third party cannot release or take away the rights and liabilities of the charterer.

The general rule is, that nothing short of blockade and war may destroy charter parties.

II.—In case this vessel should be condemned as having been engaged, in some way, in the Slave-trade, these defendants cannot be held in damages.

Again, it is a grave question, whether this vessel is not to be put on the same footing with cases where a ship is seized as a prize; and, therefore, whether this Court will take jurisdiction?

Also, it is a serious question under the code, whether this Court really has jurisdiction of the case, as revealed by the depositions?

III.—The Rosalie, an abandoned British vessel, was taken possession of by American authorities and carried to England and delivered to the authorities. This act brought the personal appearance and approval of the Queen, and a present of a magnificent sword to Captain Hartstein of the American Navy. An American vessel, the Panchita, after command of her had been abandoned, is taken possession of by British officers, and given up to American authorities, and these officers are arrested and only escape a prison by strangers becoming their bail to the Sheriff in the sum of $15,000!!

Mr. Charles Edwards, for the defendant, said: Although, if your Honor please, the merits are not allowed to be made prominent on a motion to discharge an arrest, yet, they may be somewhat looked at on an application to lower the amount of bail.

Aside from the facts that the parties arrested are subordinate, and may not, therefore, be amenable—or, if so, certainly not to the extraordinary amount for which they are held to bail, there are circumstances which may be fairly pressed on the mind of the Judge. The other side desire to make strong complaint, both to our own home Government and to this Court, on account of a seeming claim of right of search on the part of the British authorities. No such right is claimed; but the question is a very different one when a supposed wrong-doer is cruising about. A thief must run his chance of being overhauled; a vessel having a piratical character has to risk consequences; and this bark, having her hundred of fresh water casks on board, and other suspicious circumstances, is not situated like an honest American ship who may be wrongly overhauled on account of getting men out of her crew or attempted to be searched as though war was going on.

Aside from any present claim to discharge the order for arrest, let us see whether the amount, now claimed, is not greatly too much.

The vessel, apparel and furniture are here, in this port, safe, intact; so that her value is not to be taken into account. It is not, as if any act of ours had destroyed, cast away or injured the bark. Although appearances have caused her to be libelled by the United States, yet her owner can bond her.

Then, as to the cargo. This does not belong to the owner, but to the charterer, Mesquita; so that neither the cargo, nor any damages connected with it, can be claimed by the plaintiff, the owner.

And, even supposing, for a moment, that the owner has any rights as against a third person in relation to the charter money, still the amount will, in no way justify the sum for which the parties are held to bail ($15,000.) Fifty-six days is the extent of the time which she has been in charge of Lieutenant Odevaine; and the whole amount, calculating the rate of charter-money at $700 a month, would be $1,306 66.

But, even supposing, for an instant, a wrongful act by us, we are amenable to the charterer, A. C. De Mesquita, and not to the owner. And this very charterer, Mesquita, did claim ownership, as one of our affidavits shows.

A wrongful act by a third party can never annul or affect a charter party. The charterer is the owner for the time being, and he, if anybody, must be the complaining party against us. (Morgridge vs. Everett, 9 Metcalf, 162; Hutton vs. Bragg, 7 Taunt. 14; Soares vs. Thornton, 11 L. Ex. 239.) And see too, Mesquita's letter, under date of the 16th of May, 1857, which was after the alleged seizure, and yet he, evidently, looked upon the charter party as still binding on him and subsisting.

Try this in two ways: First—If this vessel was seized because there was something wrong about her, a wrong encouraged or caused by this Mesquita, then he, the charterer, cannot make that a ground for getting rid of the charter-party, and he would be liable to the real owner. Second—If there were no lawful cause for seizure, then the case stands, as between owner and charterer, as though nothing had transpired, and the charter-party remains intact. The owner has performed all he covenanted to do; the private wrong done by a third party cannot release or take away the rights and liabilities of the charterer.

The general rule is that nothing short of war, blockade or embargo can destroy a charter-party.

With these points, I am content to leave my application to your Honor. And yet, while what I am about to say may have no effect on merits, and possibly may have to be passed unheeded by the Court, I cannot forbear a remark or two growing out of an incident which all should remember. It is only a few months ago that an abandoned British vessel, the Rosalie, was taken possession of by the American authorities and carried to England, offered, accepted, delivered to the British authorities. Such an act brought forth the hearty gratitude of merchants and the pleased acknowledgments of the whole of Great Britain; nay, the very Sovereign not only approved and by personal appearance beautifully acknowledged the graceful act, but presented to Captain Hartstein a magnificent sword by way of future remembrance. An American vessel, the Panchita, after all command of her had been abandoned, is brought to the United States; offered, accepted and delivered to American legal authorities.—and these commissioned officers are threatened with a prison and held to bail in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

AFFIDAVITS ON THE PART OF THE VESSEL.

City and County of New-York, ss.—Frederick Sladden, of the city of Brooklyn, County of Kings, and State of New-York, being duly sworn, says that he was the master of the bark Panchita, of the port of New-York, from December, 1856, until her seizure on the 9th of May, 1857. Deponent says that it is not true that he abandoned the said vessel, or all control or command of her, or ordered to work sail while up the Congo River, as stated in the affidavit of the defendant, Charles D. J. Odevaine; deponent further says that it is not true that A. C. De Mesquita came on board of said Panchita and claimed her with the actions on board her; he positively denies such; he says that the crew of the Panchita all had certificates of protection duly issued by the authority of the Government of the United States to the crew of the Port of New-York, in pursuance of the Act of Congress in such case made and provided, and no such [illegible] Government of the United States as evidence of their citizenship. Deponent further says, that both of the defendants, Odevaine and Ireland, participated in the illegal and wrongful removal of the said Panchita from the coast of Africa, and aided and assisted the defendant Moresby in the various acts by which the plaintiff was deprived of his said property, but said defendants, Odevaine and Ireland, at all times professed to be acting under the orders and command of said Moresby. Deponent further says, that he never told Captain Fairfax Moresby that he did not know what was in the hold of said Panchita, but he did request to allow said Fairfax Moresby, or any other British officer, to remove the hatches of said vessel.

Deponent further says that it is not true that he did not know the names of the crew of the Panchita; that he did know them, but that all of said crew but one were at the time sick with the African fever.

Deponent further says, that the affidavit heretofore made by him, a duplicate copy of which is herewith attached and made a part of this affidavit, is in all respects true and contains a true statement of the transactions of this deponent in reference to said Panchita.

FREDERICK B. SLADDAN.

Sworn before me this 27th July, 1857.

THOS. BOSSE,
Commissioner of Deeds.

(Here follows the affidavit of Capt. Sladden, dated 11th July, 1857, and sent to Washington. It is substantially the same as his statement of the circumstances of the seizure, which was published in all the papers as soon as the Panchita was brought into port. And it also sets forth that the voyage was a proper and legitimate one. That he never was employed on board a vessel engaged in the Slave-trade, and would not have gone on this vessel if intended for that purpose.)

City and County of New-York, ss: Robert Hodge, of the City of New-York, being duly sworn, says, that he is a native of Great Britain; that he is a duly naturalized citizen of the United States, and was naturalized in the Superior Court of the City of New-York in the year 1834, as will appear by the records of said Court; that he sailed with the Panchita from this port in December last, as mate of said vessel, for a voyage to the Coast of Africa and back. That he has heard the affidavit of the master of said vessel and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true. Deponent further says that there was no intention, to his knowledge, information or belief, on the part of the master, supercargo, or of any one connected with said vessel, to use her or anything in her in the slave trade, or in any manner other than in a legitimate voyage. That no negro was on board the vessel at the time of her seizure, except two, who had been hired to sweep the decks, and who had been employed temporarily owing to the sickness of the crew of said Panchita. Deponent further says that the seizure of said vessel was unreasonable, and that a corporal was drawn on deponent to prevent him from going down the forecastle. ROBERT HODGE.

POINTS SUBMITTED BY JUDGE DEAN.

I. The complaint and affidavits show clearly that this is an action in which by law the defendants are liable to arrest, because it is "for the recovery of damages, on a cause of action not arising out of contract, when the defendants are not residents of the State."

2. The cause of action being one in which the plaintiff is entitled, as a matter of right, to hold defendants to bail, the Court will not, on this motion, go into an examination of the case on the merits. This is only done where the action is one in which the right to bail depends upon the attending circumstances, as on contracts, where fraud is alleged, or to recover property which has been removed, or of the other cases where the intent is material. Here the action is for a wrong ex delicto.

3. If the plaintiff fails to recover, the defendants have an undertaking to pay their damages. Sec. 179, Code, 5 Pr. Rep. 265 and 319.

II. But if the Court will inquire into the merits, and grant the defendants the benefit of a preliminary trial, the order of arrest should not be vacated, or in any respect modified or changed.

1. Defendants are non-residents, and confessedly intend to leave the jurisdiction to the Court, so that a judgment would be wholly ineffectual without the bail.

2. The defendants are without pecuniary means to pay the judgment. (Fol. II., affidavit of Odevaine.)

3. As the seizure of the plaintiff's property was by direction of a superior officer, the British Government will not allow them to be imprisoned. If, however, the bail is discharged, plaintiff has no hold upon the British Government, except through the dilatory process of diplomatic negotiations.

4. The seizure was wholly wrongful; no British vessel has a right in time of peace to search or seize an American vessel.

5. The pretence that the Panchita was engaged in the Slave-trade, is wholly false on their own showing. No slaves on board. Crew all sick. Regularly documented. No preparations for receiving or keeping slaves. Positive oath of the Captain. The weight of proof lies with the claim. Crew not American; there is no law that requires that they should be native born; vol. 1, Statute at Large, page 477, (act entitled "an act for the protection of American seamen.") Laws 1813, vol. 2, Statutes at Large, pages 809 and 810, sec. 9 and 10.

6. But even if it was doubtful as to the traffic in which the Panchita was to engage, the seizure was wrongful.

Our own war vessels, and not those of foreign governments, are to see that our flag is not abused by protecting an illegal traffic.

a. The intent to engage in the Slave-trade is not piracy, but the actual seizing, &c., of slaves. Laws of 1820, ch. 113. 3 vol. St. at Large, 600, sec. 4 and 5. No pretence that this was a piratical vessel.

7. By the laws of 1819, Stat. at Large, 563, the armed vessels of the United States are placed at the disposal of the President, to be employed on the coast of Africa or elsewhere, to suppress the Slave-trade.

a. By treaty of 1842, vol. 8, U. S. Stat. at Large, 576, Sec. 8: "Each shall prepare, equip and maintain in service, on the coast of Africa, a sufficient and adequate squadron, &c. " " " to enforce separately and respectively the laws, rights and obligations of each of the two countries, for the suppression of the slave trade." Captain Fairfax Moresby and Lieutenant Odevaine decide that the President is not fulfilling his treaty stipulations, and that they will do what the United States ought to do—seize and search American merchantmen. A nation only can do this in exercise of its right of eminent domain, so to speak. As it affords protection to its commerce, it has a right to know that that commerce is legitimate. Further than this the right cannot be maintained. It is like the search-warrant in the hands of the citizen.

III. The defendants Odevaine and Ireland are not exonerated from liability by showing that they made the seizure in obedience to the orders of their superior officer. An order to commit a trespass can afford no justification to the person by whom it was executed. (Harmony vs. Mitchell, 15 Haw. R. 115.)

a. The defendant in the above cause had taken property by order of Col. Doniphan, in the Mexican war. The cause was tried in the United States Circuit Court in this City, and judgment obtained for more than $90,000. Affirmed in the United States Supreme Court.

b. The fact that defendants have not converted the property to their own use is wholly immaterial. The question is not, have defendants been benefited, but has plaintiff been injured.

c. This principle is well understood in the English courts, as will be seen by reference to the case of Morgan vs. Pugsley, 1 Comp. 120. "Capt. Gambier, of the British Navy, by order of Admiral Boscawen, pulled down the houses of some settlers on the coast of Nova Scotia, who were supplying the sailors with spirituous liquors, the health of the sailors being injured by frequenting them. The motive was a laudable one and the act done for the public service. Yet it was an invasion of the rights of private property, and without the authority of law, and the officer who executed the order was held liable to an action, and the settlers recovered damages against him to the value of the property destroyed."

IV. The other ground of exception is also equally unavailable to these defendants, viz.: that the plaintiff has made an application to the Government for redress.

1. The British Government may refuse to ratify the acts of its officers.

2. No one is bound to any one remedy.

3. We may be told to establish our rights in the courts, and then that the Government will recognise them.

4. No trespasser can turn the plaintiff off until he has been paid.

5. Our Government has answered satisfactorily, but we prefer to endure even the law's delays rather than place our sole reliance on the "silent craft" of diplomacy.

V. This action can be maintained in the Courts of this State, though the act complained of was done on the high seas and under color of authority. (Wilson vs. McKenzie, 7 Hill 95.)

VI. The amount of bail should not be reduced, because there is no evidence of over value; and if the taking was wrongful, as alleged, the plaintiff should be fully indemnified.

1. The Court will not, on this motion, inquire into the rights as between owner and charterer.

2. Without this seizure no question could have been raised between owner and charterer.

Judge Dean, Counsel for the owner of the Panchita, followed at some length, elaborating the foregoing points of his argument. At the close Judge DRUMMAM delivered the following

DECISION OF THE COURT DENYING THE MOTION TO VACATE ORDER OF ARREST.

DRUMMAM, F. J.—The defendants were trespassers if the vessel of the plaintiff at the time of the capture was not engaged in the Slave-trade. From the papers submitted to me on this motion, there is nothing to warrant such a conclusion. Where a person's property is interfered with by a trespasser, and dominion exercised over it to the fore[illegible] of his own authority, he may abandon it to the trespasser, and claim from him, by way of damages, the whole value of the property. He is not required to follow after the property and seek to recover it back by legal proceedings. In the present case, the plaintiff is under no obligation to defend the proceedings in the United States Court. The defendants have taken from him his vessel—he may abandon any claim for its return, and seek to recover its value from those by whom agency he was deprived of his property. If the property was wrongfully taken, the plaintiff is not bound to follow it up, as the property belongs to those who act in obedience to the commands of a superior officer, but where is redress? If [illegible] all acting in that capacity, whatever may be obedience to orders of their superior officers or not. But I would not hold persons in such a position liable for anything more than actual damages. The vessel is valued at $8,000. The money to be earned by the charter-party was about $6,000. The residue of the amount is small enough to cover interest, costs and expenses. The defendants ask leave to offer affidavits to show the true value of the vessel is exaggerated. In ordinary cases that would be a matter of indifference to the Court, but under the peculiar circumstances of this case I am disposed to allow a renewal of the motion to mitigate the amount of bail in this particular. Motion to discharge the order of arrest is denied, without prejudice to a motion to mitigate the amount on the value of the property on payment of costs.

Decisions in Admiralty.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—JULY 22.

Before Judge Betts.

SUPPLIES—LIEN—DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Henry C. Beeck et al. vs. The Schooner Native and George Lewis.—This was a libel for supplies. The schooner was owned in New-Jersey, and was supplied in this port with a lot of bills by the written order of her owners, with directions to charge them to the vessel and hold them.

Held by the Court. That it is not an open question to speculate upon, in regard to the general authority of the maritime law, when the text of an express decision of the United States Supreme Court stands in the way. (2 How. 306, Pratt vs. Reed.) The Court say an implied hypothecation of the vessel cannot arise under a credit to the master, but strong and clear are required to support a bottomry.

There is no footing for argument in this case, but that a bottomry hypothecation by the master, entered into upon the facts in proof, would have been void. Libel dismissed with costs.

For libelant—Messrs. Beebe, Dean and Donohue. For claimants—Messrs. Larrard & Bell, and Mr. Platt.

BOTTOMRY—PROOF—LIEN.

Sidney Cornelius vs. The Schooner Native.—This was a libel upon a bottomry. The case comes before the Court so obscurely and perplexed in the statement of facts, that it is impossible to ascertain the actual merits, or whether either party contesting has a lien upon the vessel.

A reference ordered to a commissioner to report the facts, showing the bottomry to have been primarily valid, and yet a subsisting lien upon the vessel.

For libelant—Messrs. Beebe, Dean, and Donohue. For claimants—Messrs. Larrard & Bell, and Mr. Platt.

COLLISION—STEAM-TUGS.

Alfred M. Hovey vs. The steamboat Sarah E. Brown.—This was a libel for collision, filed by the owner of the barge Meth. The action was taken in tow by the tug Thomas Riley, from the foot of Pier No. 3 East River, to be towed to Pier No. 3. The Sarah E. Brown was lying at the foot of Pier No. 6 when the Riley got under way. She was cast off, her head pushed out with a pole, and her engine started, as the Riley was approaching, and the two vessels were then moving in the same general direction, and were nearly side by side, when the steam of the Brown was cut off, and her headway checked. Her engine was then again started, and she was brought up against the side of the barge, breaking it in, and sinking her. The tide was flood. The distance the barge was to be towed was about 400 yards, in nearly a straight line.

Held by the Court—That it was a palpable fault for the Brown to put out nearly under the foot of the Riley at so very short a distance off, with intent to pass ahead of her, and after having stopped to renew her effort, and come upon the barge when there was no apparent hope to be able to get past her in that direction.

Strictly the Riley ought to have stopped and backed after the Brown put out, in order to lend every assistance to preventing a collision; but as the Brown did not back her own engines, nor is it proved that the Riley could at that position of the two vessels have herself prevented the collision without the active aid of the Brown, the omission of the Riley to make the effort does not relieve the Brown from her responsibility for the first and leading fault.

Decree for libelant with a reference.

For libelant—Mr. Platt. For claimant—Mr. McMahon.

BARGES TO CARGO—SWEAT—BILLS OF LADING.

Lorenzo N. Busquet vs. George H. Marwood et al.—This was a libel filed by the owner of the bark Gotland, to recover the sum of $9,150 freight, upon a cargo of pepper, &c., brought from Batavia in the vessel. The respondents, who were assignees of bills of lading, claimed to deduct upwards of $4,700 damages, occasioned by negligence in stowing the cargo, short delivery, &c.

Held by the Court—That the cargo was well stowed, and that the libelant was not responsible for injuries to the cargo, from sweating of the ship, without his fault, that being a risk of the affreighter.

Decree for libelant for amount claimed, unless the respondents elect to have a reference to compute the amount due, or to prove short delivery of cargo.

For libelants, Messrs. Beebe, Dean and Donohue; for respondents, Mr. Dodge and Mr. Benedict.

IDENTIFIED.—The crazy German who died yesterday morning in the Station-house of the Ninth Precinct, Brooklyn, has been identified as ROBERT WEAVER, of No. 57 Chatham street, New-York.

NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1857.

[illegible] DAY.

By the arrival at Quebec of the Canadian Steamship Company's new steamer North America, we have the receipt of five days later intelligence from Europe. The most interesting and important news is that brought by the Indian mail, which had arrived in London. The mutiny, of which we have already had such alarming accounts, has extended among the Sepoys, and several more native regiments, numbering some thousand men, are reported to be disaffected. It is asserted, however, that the rebellion is entirely confined to the army, and in this sense the expression can only be a question of time. The Sepoys still hold Delhi, but the Indian troops were joined by Government troops, who had attacked and driven the rebels within the walls. When the mail left the fall of the city was hourly expected. There were several skirmishes between the insurgents and the British troops, in which the death of Sir HENRY LAWRENCE, the British Commissioner in Oude, is announced. His successor is Mr. COLIN CAMPBELL, of Chinese reputation, who left Calcutta for the front on a few hours' notice.

The news from China, two weeks later, is not important. The English gun boats, accompanied by the United States frigate San Jacinto, had gone up the Canton River to attack the piratical junks. It is reported that the mail steamship Erie, from Hongkong, was wrecked off the coast of Ceylon on the 6th of June. Her passengers and the mails and specie were saved.

There is nothing of special interest in the European news. Colonel LEMAY had moved in the House of Commons for Secretary MARCY's letter to the French Government on the subject of privateering, and the representation of Lord PALMERSTON that the British Government had no official knowledge of the fact that the nation was withdrawn. The recently discovered conspiracies against the French Emperor are said to be much more serious than was at first believed. In the programme were included the assassination of the Emperor and a general revolution throughout Southern Europe. Spain and Italy were tranquil—at least, so say the reports. For how long, is a question which time only can answer.

The steamship Atlantic, with the California mail of July 6 and $1,453,648 in treasure, arrived a little yesterday afternoon. We receive by this arrival two weeks later intelligence from California, Oregon, New-Granada, Central America, the South Pacific and the British West Indies.

The news from California is not of special importance. Politics have been the engrossing theme for the fortnight ending the 5th inst. Great excitement was manifested at the election of delegates to the Democratic State Convention. The struggle was between the Administration and the Broderick wings of the Democracy, JOHN B. WELLER being the Gubernatorial candidate of the former, and J. W. MCCONNICK of the latter. So far as returns are received the WELLER delegates are greatly in the majority. Business in California continues to be unusually depressed, but mining operations are carried on as successfully as ever.

One news from Oregon Territory is to the 20th June. The vote is favor of a State government is [illegible]. The policy of making Oregon a [illegible] by a party in [illegible] a pro-slavery [illegible] were entertained [illegible] at the Dalles, [illegible] has transpired.

Our advices from Panama are to the 19th of July. The New-Granadian Congress still remained in session. If we are to believe El Tempo, a semi-official paper published at Bogota, the difficulty with the United States is virtually settled. A law, moreover, has been passed, authorizing the Executive to adjust the American claim, the only prohibition being that of alienating the right of national sovereignty in any part of the Territory of New-Granada, or disposing of the reserved rights of the Government in the Panama Railroad. By this law the Executive is further authorized to refer or accept the arbitration of a friendly Government, whose decision shall be obligatory upon the two contracting nations. Under these circumstances, we expect that friendly relations will soon be reestablished between this country and New-Granada. Among other intelligence from the Isthmus we publish, elsewhere, the project of a new law for the better security of the persons and property of passengers in Panama and Aspinwall. On board the United States Frigate Independence, the Fourth of July was kept with becoming pomp.

We have received late and interesting intelligence from Central America. The Costa Ricans are still filled with the quarrels of WALKER, [illegible] and SPENCER, the first represent[illegible], GARRISON, MORGAN and DRAPER, and the latter representing VANDERBILT, in the effort to get the contract for a new Steamship Company to reestablish the route across Nicaragua. The merits of these quarrels we do not care to [illegible] and our correspondent, in the letter we this morning publish, merely records them as they [illegible] at the present time. The old politicians in Nicaragua still maintain a degree of [illegible] towards each other, and it will take all [illegible] that the other Central American States [illegible], to restore peace and harmony. The Costa Ricans are guarding and strongly fortifying the San Juan River. There has been an unsuccessful attempt at Revolution in San Salvador. General BARRIOS, late commander of the Salvadorean forces in Nicaragua, undertook to depose President CARIPE, but the people gave him no support, and he yielded himself up a prisoner. No news of importance is received from Guatemala or Honduras.

Two weeks later advices are received from the South Pacific States. In Ecuador the primary elections had generally terminated in favor of the Government. From Peru there is nothing new to report. The situation of the hostile forces of CASTILLA and VIVANCO in Arequipa, was unchanged, but the latter, being without money, must soon yield. The Chilian Congress assembled at Santiago on the 1st of June, and among other measures under its consideration was the treaty of union between Chili, Peru and Ecuador. Fresh ecclesiastical troubles are anticipated in the Republic. Business in Valparaiso continued very dull. The market, in general, was largely stocked and purchasers were scarce. From Bolivia we learn that the yellow fever continued its ravages at La Paz.

There was nothing done by the Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners, yesterday, there not being a quorum present. As before, the two Mayors and Mr. CROTWELL were not there. Some talk was held about forming a maximum to compel their presence, if they persist in remaining away many days longer.

The examination of witnesses in the Convent Contract Case was continued yesterday before Hearing Officer, Esq., the referee. The case will last some time longer.

Superintendent FOX, of the Brooklyn Police, has presented to the Common Council his quarterly report. It appears that 2,006 persons had received punishment amounts to the law during the past three months. Of these 2,000 offenders, [illegible] were sentenced to the Penitentiary, [illegible] City Prison, while 207 are charged as vagrants, 165 as petit larceny, 20 violators of excise laws, 5 murder, 4 rape, and 11 as keeping disorderly houses. Otherwise the list presents no peculiarities, excepting that it is an increase of 200 upon the previous quarter.

The Comptroller of Brooklyn yesterday deposited $20,000 in the Mechanics' Bank, to the credit of the State Treasurer, for the payment of the Brooklyn Police. It is said now that the Police cannot get their money until their accounts are audited by the Commissioners.

Some of the old Police trumped up a charge yesterday against Deputy Superintendent CARPENTER—a charge of abusive language concerning his Honor Mayor WOOD. This they preferred before the Commissioners of Police, backing it up with sundry affidavits, which make one think of schoolboys rushing up in hot haste to tell the school ma'am that Daniel has been using naughty words.

The Jersey-City Ferry improvement is now completed. The ferry-houses on the New-York side have cost about $50,000. The entire work has been done by Mr. JOB MAILE, of Jersey-City.

The curious and exciting case of the alleged slave bark Peacible, came up yesterday in the shape of a motion before Judge INGRAHAM in Chambers for an order to discharge from arrest Lieutenant C. D. J. OBRYAINE and Surgeon INGLAND, the British officers who brought the vessel to this port, and who were arrested and held in $15,000 bail for the alleged illegal seizure; the history of the case is fully set forth in the documents submitted to the Court, and the legal points of counsel in the case. Judge INGRAHAM refused to discharge the British officers from custody, and reserves his decision as to the reduction of the amount of bail. The two officers are guests on board the United States receiving ship North Carolina at the Navy Yard.

American Racers in England.

Most proverbs are mere "flies in amber," thoughts neither rich, nor rare, nor true, shrined in shiny words, and treasured for that reason only.

But there are exceptions to this rule, and the old saying which declares that "fair play is a jewel," is one of these exceptions. For fair play, practical magnanimity, is one of these virtues, which are recognized as virtues by all the world. It sparkles in the eyes of all men with attractive lustre. When displayed between man and man in private life, it is one of the strongest possible incentives to mutual respect. When displayed between nation and nation, it not only quickens international sympathy, but makes a positive breach in the walls of international prejudice. Every occasion for its exercise, therefore, is worthy the attention of statesmen, for the value of things in this world is to be estimated by their productive results, much more than by their intrinsic pretensions.

Consider, for instance, the good consequences to both nations, but particularly to this country, of the temper in which the appearance of our representative yacht America was received by our British cousins, and of the hearty honesty with which her signal victory in the great Regatta at Cowes was acknowledged by the defeated parties in that pacific but brilliant conflict.

We had engaged Englishmen on their own favorite element, and in their own particularly national mood. The double pride and amour propre of the British sailor and the British sportsman were enlisted against the audacious champion of the Transatlantic clippers. The audacious champion was successful—and not only successful, but successful beyond a parad, venture or a cavil—so successful that the telegraphic account of the result sent up to London, in announcing the America as "first, with no second," echoed and confirmed, in the negative sense, the exclamation uttered by Lord ANGLESEY, on first beholding the "long, low, black" competitor for the trident of the Channel—"If the America is right, then we are all wrong!"

The America was right, and all England owned it manfully. The Englishmen were all wrong, and they admitted it forthwith, and thereupon set to work to learn of their conqueror the secret of his superiority.

The memory of this honorable conduct of the British yachtsmen has never been suffered to die out of the minds of our people. It has done more than a pyramid of protocols or an Alexandrian library of State papers could have done to elevate the popular American estimate of the English character, and to infuse a feeling of cordiality towards our kinsmen beyond the sea into the hearts of Americans of all classes. Recently revived by the reception of the prize which the America then won, and by the consequent invitation which our New-York Yacht Club has addressed to the yachts of all nations for a new contest in our own waters, to be governed by a like spirit, (and, as we naturally trust, to be crowned by a like result,) the recollections of the Cowes Regatta deserve to be treated as substantial matter for congratulation by all who were in any way concerned in the events which they commemorate. Neither the victors nor the vanquished can find occasion in them for any but the best feelings.

And in looking back upon the contest we can see no reason for relegating the near approaching conflict between the racers of England and our own, on the English turf, to a secondary place among the events of the season.

Whether the American horses which have been sent out to England, and which are to run certainly at one and possibly at two of the races of the current English season, shall or shall not be treated by the racing men of England as handsomely as our New-York yacht was treated by their compeers of the sea, is really a question of some national concern. Of course, if Pryor and Prioress, to whom and to whose jockies the honor of the American stables is for the moment confided, shall carry off the Ebor Handicap and the Goodwood Cup, we shall be vastly delighted. The fishermen of Maine and the trappers of Texas will exult in this result as vociferously as the turfmen of New-York and Carolina. Men who never crossed a saddle will peruse the narrative of the trial with breathless interest, and lovely eyes will sparkle over the victorious ciphers quite as brightly as if handicaps and cups, "forfeits" and "weights for age" were words of no more mysterious import than "ruches" and "guipure." And if, on the other hand, we should be unlucky enough to be beaten, the national chagrin will vent itself in a pretty severe, ful examination of the circumstances, before we make up our minds that we have had our deserts.

We cannot, therefore, refrain from expressing our regret that the match for the Ebor Handicap, which is to come off on the 20th of August, about three weeks after the Goodwood, which takes place on Thursday of this week, should have been so made up as to cast some legitimate doubts upon the disposition of the parties concerned towards their friendly foreign rivals.

A Handicap race, be it known to the uninitiated, is a race for which the match is made up by an umpire, in this wise: The parties to the race deposit each an equal sum of money in a hat, which is held by the handicapper. This functionary then makes up a match on such terms as he holds to be fair, and his match, so made up, is offered to the contestants. If both accept the offered terms, or if both decline them, the sums deposited fall to the handicapper. If, on the contrary, one accepts and the other declines, the party accepting appropriates the deposit. It will be seen at once that where one of the parties to a handicap match is a foreigner, the very greatest fairness ought to be observed by the umpire in making up the match.

Now, what are the facts of the Ebor Handicap for which it is understood that American horses have been entered. We subjoin a table of the horses entered, with their assigned weights to carry:

	Age.	lbs.		Age.	lbs.
Pryor	5	128	Mysterious Jack	5	86
Fisherman	4	124	Magnifier	3	84
Polestar	5	122	Odd Trick	5	84

Mongrel (h. h.)	3	88	Hobgoblin	3	68
Mitraille	3	88	Six and Eight-pence	3	58
Tasmania	3	87
Sneeze	3	87

From this table it will be seen at once that while Pryor leads a list of 58, Prioress is more heavily weighted than any other horse of her sex and age. This may have been intended as a compliment, for the Handicap match is made up on the intelligent principle of underweighting the bad horses and overweighting the good, so that the bad and the good may be put as nearly as possible on an equality. But when we come to examine the details of the match it becomes quite dubious whether the distinction should be thus interpreted.

For on referring to last year's Handicap at York, we find that of two five-year olds there entered, and both of them horses, one, MORRIS' Gamekeeper, carried only 102 lbs., and the other, Sir C. MONCK'S Viadex, only 114 lbs! Moreover, Fisherman, who appears in this year's Handicap, weighted with 2 lbs. less than Pryor, is a horse of the highest reputation, the winner of her Majesty's cup at last year's Ascot meeting, and so much esteemed by the English turf, that it has been frequently asserted that he could give Pryor 14 lbs. and distance him at that. We might go through the list, finding at almost every step new confirmation of the inferences which we cannot avoid drawing from facts like these. But this unwelcome task we leave to such English sportsmen as are anxious enough for the honor of their national sport to be determined that full justice shall be done to all fair foreign competitors. The rules of the English Jockey Club do not apply to any races but those of Newmarket, yet we cannot but hope that the spirit of that manly association, as it used to be incarnated in the chivalrous and high-spirited Lord GEO. BENTINCK, is not utterly unknown in other arenas of the Pindaric sport. For if Pryor and Prioress should run and be beaten at York under the existing conditions of this match, we are very sure that the American people will remember the name of the "Knavesmire" ground as one o sadly appropriate significance; and this is a consummation by all means to be avoided.

The Goodwood race, of which we may expect to hear the result in the course of a fortnight, will be a very different affair. That race is under the control of honorable men, and though no particular favor is there shown to foreign horses, they are treated with a reasonable degree of fairness. Our American Pryor is there put on an exact equality with a French horse of his own age, Monarque, who ran very respectably for the Goodwood Cup of last year.

Whatever the issue of the Goodwood match may be, we trust that the "Ebor Handicap" may not be so contested as to leave an unpleasant memory quite out of proportion to the importance of the conflict itself. The national bearings of the arrangements should not be forgotten in concern for the private results of the contest.

DULLNESS AT THE WATERING PLACES.—There is a general complaint from all the various watering places and Summer resorts all over the country of unusual dullness and a paucity of visitors. But we doubt if this be owing to the circumstance of people staying home the present season more than in past years. The cause of the dullness at the watering places has been attributed to hard times, the backwardness of the season, and to the fact that an unusual number of fashionable people have gone to Europe instead of going to Newport, Saratoga, &c. But these causes will not sufficiently explain the defection of visitors at the haunts of pleasure seekers. Though the season has been backward, yet the weather has been sufficiently hot the past three or four weeks to drive people into the country, and as for the visitors to Europe they are not sufficiently numerous to be missed. The times have only been hard to a few; to the great mass of our population the times are good enough. We suspect that the true cause of the complained-of dullness lies in the great increase of watering places and the growing habit of taking cottages for the Summer months, by families seeking for a change of air and country quiet, instead of herding in hotels.

Our watering places and Summer resorts have now become so numerous, and the hotel accommodations have become so immensely large at all these places that it is quite impossible they should be all filled. Look at the gigantic hotel accommodations which may be found at the various watering places on the sea-coast from Old Point to Rye Beach; at Cape May, Deal, Long Branch, Shrewsbury, the Highlands of Navesink, Bath, Coney Island, Rockaway, Islip, Glen Cove, Sachem's Head, Newport, Nahant, &c. To fill all the hotels at these famous resorts would almost depopulate our large towns; but these are but a small part of the Summer retreats, the mountain houses, springs, lakes, falls and caverns are still more numerous, and nearly all of them have been enlarged to meet an anticipated increase of visitors. Saratoga has added considerably to its accommodations, and all over the country, on the top of every mountain, and near every mineral spring, there have been hotels built, so that if as many people have gone into the country as usual this season, and scattered themselves among the various resorts, there must, of necessity, be dullness somewhere. The truth is, that the watering place business has been greatly overdone; there are too many rival establishments, and it would be greatly for the benefit of pleasure-seekers if there were not half so many places to which they could go. Some of the hotel-keepers the present season must suffer; there is but one month more for the Summer carnival; at the best, the watering place season is brief, but this Summer it will be the briefest that has ever been known. Newport has, heretofore, never failed to fill up during the month of July, but the great hotels there are now comparatively empty, and Saratoga is not much better off. If the dullness of the present season shall have the effect of checking, for a while, the tendency to expansion and extravagance at our fashionable watering places, the result will be a decided benefit to the public at large.

The Panama Question.

Our special Correspondent at Panama sends us a copy of the law recently passed by the New-Granadian Congress, empowering President OSPINA to effect an arrangement of the pending difficulties with the United States. We have already been advised from Washington that General HERRAN, the representative of New-Granada, claimed full powers to enter into negotiations for the accomplishment of that end. There is every reason, therefore, to anticipate an early and satisfactory adjustment of the pending difficulties. It will be the fault of our own Government if that adjustment does not provide ample security for the future, as well as just indemnity for the past. The payment of the $400,000 demanded in settlement of American claims has been admitted, as a necessity, from the beginning, by everybody in New-Granada, except those influenced by the bluster of the impracticable rabble who looked upon war with the United States as a pleasant pastime to be courted rather than avoided.

The law already referred to admits the money claim upon its face, and impliedly confesses the necessity and propriety of yielding something more, not specifically named. This will appear by a critical analysis of the text, which guards the integrity of the national sovereignty over Panama, and also provides for a submission of the pending questions to the arbitration of a third power, if there should be any irreconcilable difficulty in settling the terms of the treaty to be made. It is clear that no difficulty could have been anticipated in reference to the money claim, for the American demand upon that score is explicit, and as we have already stated, is conceded. If it were not thus conceded, still it is scarcely probable that the mediation suggested could be proposed with reference to this point, because the United States have already peremptorily declined the intervention of a third power in reference to our claim for indemnity. So, too, it will be seen that no possible sacrifice of sovereignty could have been feared in adjusting the mere payment to the United States of a sum of money; and a stipulation against its cession clearly implies the expectation that the United States would demand, and the Government of New-Granada find itself constrained to yield, something beyond the $400,000 exacted to reimburse the losses of our citizens.

It is in the settlement of this second branch of the arrangement—in the effort to secure future security for commerce and travel via the Isthmus of Panama—that Mr. CASS will find field for exercise of diplomatic tact and skill. While indemnity for private injuries is indispensable, future security is of vastly greater national importance. It will be for the Administration to determine how this security can be best provided. On former occasions we have expressed our sentiments in favor of the general plan embodied in the instructions to Commissioner MORSE—a plan looking to the establishment of an independent Municipal Government over the Panama Transit route, under American protection and influence. We have reason to believe that a little firmness, upon the part of the United States Government, to support and encourage the accommodating spirit of President OSPINA, will secure us every item of the demands originally made through Mr. MORSE. Nor will these be grudgingly yielded—a tribute extorted by fear from a weak and trembling power. OSPINA'S Administration is intelligent enough to know that the Isthmus is a nuisance to the rest of the Republic, because it is too remote from the centre of power for either control or protection. Thus, on the one hand, the Government of Bogota is utterly unable to make its power practical upon the Isthmus, to collect from it the expenses of its government, or to hold its turbulent population in check according to its treaty stipulations. The Isthmus is an unnatural appendage to New-Granada, and a continual source of vexation and annoyance. The Republic relieved of the duty of supporting a Government there, or fulfilling the obligations now attaching to ownership of its sovereignty, would be far more compact, richer, stronger, and less exposed to collision with foreign powers.

Again, the people of Panama have ever been dissatisfied with the Central Government, so distant as never to thoroughly appreciate its necessities. The experiment of letting it govern itself as an independent State has been tried for a year or two, and has failed; nevertheless, the law recently passed, and brought us by the Illinois, which virtually obliterates the State Government of Panama, and restores the direct federal authority over it, is received with great dissatisfaction by the people, who will find in it another incentive to defiance of the federal control. Indeed, we are told that the people are already almost in a state of revolt, and the Government of Bogota has not the power, and never had, to suppress such popular tumults. Considerations such as we have named satisfy OSPINA and his friends that the best possible thing to be done for their country is to let the United States have a long lease of the Isthmus, with a view to the establishment of a strong Government there, under the protection of which commerce may thrive, and the State become wealthy, populous, self-supporting and orderly, instead of remaining, as now, poverty-stricken, the stamping-ground of an unruly mob, and the breeder of foreign dissension.

OSPINA has done much in getting a law passed under which such results as these may be obtained. More he cannot do without bringing upon his head the fury of the rabble, who accuse him already of selling the public domain to a foreign power, and who thus appeal to a false and ignorant national pride for his overthrow. He is, however, anxiously waiting to be "forced" into conceding just what we have asked—not a cession of territory—not a transfer of New-Granadian sovereignty, but simply the erection of a Municipal Government over the Isthmus, under American protection. We take it for granted that President BUCHANAN and Mr. CASS will not let the opportunity slip to obtain so desirable a result. This once secured, our growing commerce via Panama will receive an impulse of incalculable value.

Legal Scandals.

It is very difficult for journalists to decide how best to deal with domestic quarrels and private misfortunes which demand the intervention of the law.

The general principle of our jurisprudence, which requires that a certain degree of publicity shall be given to all legal proceedings which involve the life or the liberty of the citizen, is unquestionably a sound one. But new positions are to be taken when we come to consider just what kind of publicity shall be given to such proceedings. That our Courts should be held in open session, that access to the tribunals of justice should be freely afforded to all whom a legitimate interest in the matter under discussion draws thither, and even to those who are influenced by no loftier or more intense emotion than a vague impulse of curiosity—there can be no manner of doubt. The power of the tongue in the propagation of scandal is after all limited, and though some mischief must always be done by bringing people into contact with sad or degrading exhibitions, which are to them exhibitions only, and calls upon them for no display of activity in a noble direction, yet this mischief may be fairly enough held to be counterbalanced by the chances which such publicity multiplies of interference where interference may be needed to defeat an injustice or to establish a right.

But it is a very serious question how far the ends of private justice and the cause of public morality are likely to be served by the growing tendency of the public mind to demand elaborate reports of legal difficulties purely private in their origin and in their consequences as an essential part of the news which the daily press is expected to furnish to its readers.

We quarrel with the managers of our theatres for putting before us the terrible histories of sin and shame which men of genius have wrought into solemn lessons of moral and religious truth. We denounce the exhibition of the fatal madness of Phædra smitten by the implacable Venus; the display of Myrrha's ghastly frenzy—the lamentable show of Camille's heart-breaking and heart-broken desolation—of her degradation, her despair, and her bitter expiations. Yet these stories come to us upon the stage elaborated by thoughtful men, and as it were distilled into a very spirit of pathetic wisdom. If we condemn these what are we to say to the bold recital of the piteous or odious details of crime and misfortune as they pass before us in the blank reality of their every-day horror? Can it be expected that of those who read the unredeemed reports of trying private difficulties, or of horrible iniquities in our daily journals, any considerable proportion should be fitted by native power of mind, or by training, to digest the narrative which piques their transient attention, and extract from it its ethical meaning and its moral value?

These are topics which may well recur and recur again to the minds of all who reflect at all seriously upon the character and the influences of the Press. For those who contribute to the support of the Press are not less involved in whatever responsibility of this sort attaches to it, than those by whom the Press is conducted.

But if there be legitimate room for meditation and inquiry in regard to the propriety of making public the scandals of our courts, there can be no doubt, we think, as to the undesirableness of transferring questions which may arise in these courts to the arena of the public Press. However seriously misrepresented a man may feel himself to have been by this or that report of proceedings in which he has unfortunately been compelled to bear a part, it is, we think, a duty which he owes to society not less than to himself to confide the ultimate decision of his case to the tribunals of the law, and not to provoke any more of the public attention than it is possible for him to avoid. For mankind have a passion for individuals and details, and every demonstration of personality gives new zest to the relations of human frailty, and the misfortunes of human experience.

We have been led to these remarks by the perusal of a letter which we this morning publish at the request of Mr. SAMUEL J. HOPKINS, who appeared as the defendant in a recent suit for the discharge of his wife alleged by her brothers to be unlawfully detained as a lunatic. We give place to Mr. HOPKINS' letter in conformity with the custom of journalism in such cases—and we have no reason to question the accuracy of Mr. HOPKINS' statements, nor we certainly have no inclination to lend them our support. We do not wish to make ourselves in any way parties to the case, or agents in the propagation of public interest in a matter which had much better be left to the quiet operation of the law. The only point of legitimate public interest which we find to be involved in the case, is that which concerns the conduct of two City Justices who are accused of granting warrants for the confinement of a reputed lunatic, in the hasiest manner, and on insufficient grounds. This is indeed a subject of no small concern to the community, and will receive from us the attention which its importance deserves, when we shall have discovered a fitting occasion to speak advisedly of the matter. But for Mr. SAMUEL J. HOPKINS and his wife, difficulties with his wife and his wife's family, we have only to say that our sympathy with the victims of such calamities, (for all concerned in them, whether as sinners or as sufferers, must be held to be victims of something worse than) is too sincere, and our disbelief in the value or decency of vagrant public curiosity too deep, for us to regard the publication of such appeals as Mr. HOPKINS makes with any feelings whatever but those of sincere regret that they should be made.

MISS FLORA MCFLIMSEY.—This celebrated young lady, who is more talked about just now than either Miss MARGARET FULLER or Mrs. CUMMINGHAM BURDELL, has become connected with another young lady by the name of PECK, the daughter of a clergyman, who claims, in fact, to be the parent of the lady who had nothing to wear. Miss PECK's father has published a letter claiming Miss FLORA as his daughter's child, and furnishing proof of her parentage. Some of our cotemporaries have entered into the controversy with great spirit, and a legal gentleman named BURTON has published a letter in which he most ungallantly disputes the pretensions of Miss PECK, and claims Miss FLORA as his own offspring. It might be considered as ill-natured if we should remark that the whole squabble about Miss FLORA McFLIMSEY reminds us very much of the great controversy about the author of John Halifax, last year at this time, carried on by the leading journals that are now so seriously discussing the authorship of Nothing to Wear, and that it has very much the look of an "advertising dodge."

Legislation for Women.

The advocates of Women's Rights have not abandoned their cause as a hopless one, but are still prosecuting it with increasing energy and vigor. Conventions are coming to be numerous, and, at least in the east, but other direct efforts are being taken to equalize the property holding, letting to the sexes, as well as to obtain the final victory—the right of suffrage for women. In pursuance of a resolution adopted at the National Convention held in New-York last November, memorials were presented to the Legislatures of the several states during their last Winter's session, which elicited considerable discussion and some favorable action.

Owing to some mistake, the memorial presented to the New-York Legislature was received at too late a date to receive attention.

The Legislature of Maine passed an act by which a husband is entitled to an allowance in the personal estate of his deceased wife, with a distributive share in the residue thereof, in the same manner as the wife is to the estate of her husband. If she leaves issue, he has the use of one-third, if no issue, of one-half of her real estate for his life, which is protected and assigned in the manner and with the rights of dower. An act was also passed, giving married women the right to their wages for services performed for other than their own family, independently of the control of their husbands.

The Legislature of Missouri passed an act providing that if a married woman be compelled, through the desertion or profligacy of her husband, to provide for the maintenance of herself and family, she shall be entitled to her own earnings, and to all real or personal property purchased therewith, and shall be property shall not be liable for the debts of her husband, nor subject to his control.

A similar bill was passed by the Legislature of Indiana.

The Legislature of Ohio passed a bill enacting that no married man shall dispose of any personal property without having first obtained the consent of his wife, the wife being empowered, in case of the violation of such act, to commence a civil suit in her own name for the recovery of said property; and also that any married woman whose husband shall desert her or neglect to provide for his family, shall be entitled to her wages and to those of her minor children. These amendments were warmly recommended by Gov. CHASE in his annual message. The Select Committee of the Senate on the petition asking the right of suffrage, reported in favor of the proposed amendment; but the bill was defeated in the Senate by a vote of 44 to 44. The petition received some ten thousand signatures.

The Select Committee of the Michigan Senate also reported favorably on a similar petition, and recommended an amendment to the Constitution, granting the right of the elective franchise to all citizens, irrespective of sex. This resolution was debated in the Senate by a vote of 15 yeas to 17 nays, every Senator being present.

A strong report in favor of granting the right of suffrage to women was also submitted in the Senate of Wisconsin by the Committee appointed to report thereon, but with similar success.

We understand that effective and well-organized efforts will be made during the coming Winter to bring the subject before the Legislatures of the different States.

The Hon. HENRY C. MURPHY, Minister to the Hague, on Friday last, in the office of Collector of Taxes and Assessments, Brooklyn, Commenced to slap Assessor LOCKER's face, of the Third Ward, to be repeated the remark that Mr. MURPHY would have the advantage of a man who once had a beard. The offensive remark was repeated, and in consequence Mr. LOCKER proceeded to chastise Mr. MURPHY if he laid the weight of his finger upon him. At this stage of the proceedings the parties separated and there was no fight. On the whole this was the best way, for the friends of Mr. MURPHY propose to give him a dinner on the 6th of August at the Mansion House, Brooklyn, just previous to his departure on his foreign mission.

Obituary.

FERGUSON BOYDEN, Esq., died at Goshen, Orange County, on Friday evening. Mr. BOYDEN was one of the late Samuel Swinton, of Boston, and for a number of years a member of the corporation of the Astor House, New-York, and subsequently the proprietor of the Exchange Hotel, Richmond, Va.

MILITARY DECISION.—At the General Term of the Supreme Court, recently held at Newburg, a decision was given adverse to Morgan J. Lockwood, who claims to be Brigadier-General in the Second Division New-York State Militia. Judge Brown dissented. Lockwood has appealed a decision to carry the case higher. The merits of this dispute seem not to be generally understood.

A few years since, when the present State law was enacted, reorganizing the Militia Departments, Generals of Brigade, among other officers, were required to be elected, but through the neglect of General Lockwood, as alleged, no election of commanding officer of his Brigade took place. There being a vacancy, therefore, Governor CLARK appointed Colonel Samuel Ver Planck, of Yonkers, to fill it. Lockwood then moved on Sunday a writ of mandamus, which being of the nature of an injunction, still left the Brigade in fact without a head. A few months ago Governor King, at the instance of several officers of the Brigade, appointed Colonel Fanning, of Newburg, to act as Brigadier, until the legal question between Lockwood and Ver Planck was decided. Whether numerous problems will now take [illegible].

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.—An unknown man was seen on Monday morning to fall into the dock at pier No. 14, E. R., and a boat made to rescue him. The body was not recovered, and an inquest will be held upon it to-day.

The Difficulty with the Spanish Authorities at Gaetan—Troops for Minnesota, &c.

Expected Dispatches to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, July 27.

The difficulties existing between the Spanish authorities at the Island of Gaetan, one of the Lobos group, and Consul MARTIN, were some time ago brought to the notice of this Government. The late news is being investigated.

Our Minister to Spain was some time since authorized to obtain the conference of Diplomatic powers upon Governors of Spanish colonies, so that ministers might bring about the cessation of Senor TASSARA, the Spanish minister, will, no doubt, be directed to this.

General F. A. ENDRAY, Minister from New-Granada, had a conference this morning with General CASS on the Panama reclamation. The matter is borne upon as favorably settled.

Lord NAPIER was in consultation this evening with the Secretary of State, on Central American affairs.

Central American—Policy of the British Government.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, July 25, 1857.

The recent declaration of Lord CLARENDON through the British Minister, in regard to the future policy of the British Government relative to the American Continent, can believed to have been offered in good faith, and are accepted and confided in to a great extent by this Government. They are consistent with other public declarations recently made by Lord PALMERSTON, and with the well-known sentiments of other British statesmen, and also with the manifest policy of Great Britain. To pursue a course of irritation towards this country, such as Lord PALMERSTON was, a while ago, disposed to do, would in the end involve a war—a result which would be ruinous and intolerable to the British manufacturing and commercial interests. This warning was given by Mr. D'ISRAELI, in a speech on relations with the United States, some time ago, and has a marked effect upon British policy.

It is now that a declaration, somewhat similar to that of Lord CLARENDON's, was made to the Government by Sir HENRY BULWER, during his diplomatic service here, and that it was followed by the proclamation establishing the colony of the Bay Islands!

Recently circumstances have since concurred to give a more decided direction to British policy on the subject. The war with Russia and with Persia and China have intervened, and British dominion has since been greatly extended in the East. Great Britain is led to wish American sympathy, if not cooperation; and the Cotton supply panic has been an acknowledgment of her dependence on this Country, for the maintenance of her most vital interests.

Therefore, the Clarendon declaration is more confidently trusted in than it would have been under other circumstances.

But, the declaration referred to is not unaccompanied by evidences of its sincerity.

It will be remembered that a rumor prevailed some months ago that New-Granada had ceded an island in the Bay of Panama to Great Britain. Lord NAPIER contradicted it, stating that it could not have occurred without his knowledge. Lord CLARENDON's famous letter followed in consequence of this report. It begins by the remark that he (Lord CLARENDON) did not know how the report alluded to originated, but that Lord NAPIER was quite right in contradicting it. It goes on to say that the United States need be under no apprehension that the Government of Great Britain intends to add to her possessions on or near this Continent, and that it was not their policy to add a foot to what they now held. As an evidence of this, the Government had lately declined the protectorate of the Chinchа Islands, which had been tendered to them, though its acceptance would have been popular with the agricultural interests. But he adds that the British Government would not witness, without concern, any attempt to exclude Great Britain from the use of Isthmian communication between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

This letter was communicated to the Government. The plain meaning of it is, that it, the British Government, has nothing to seek or desire on this Continent, except the enjoyment of means of communication across the Isthmus, between North and South America. That she intends to have; and from that it cannot be the wish of our Government or people to exclude her.

This much was made known, from the highest official sources, concerning the dispatch of Lord CLARENDON, nearly a month ago.

Since that time the President has informed some of his friends that the declarations and professions of Great Britain on this subject have gone much further. The British Government have made known their wishes, that the United States would carry out the policy of extending their authority or influence over the States of Central America, for the benefit of those States themselves, and of the commerce and peace of the world. In a word, they desire us to do what they, under like circumstances, would do.

Nor was this an unmeaning nor an empty profession, for it was accompanied by the direct interposition of the British Government in our imbroglio with New-Granada; and General CASS is convinced and has stated that the change of tone, on the part of the New-Granadian Government, towards the United States, was, in a great measure, owing to the direct influence of the British Government. The settlement of the affair, in conformity with our reasonable demands, will be as much due to Lord PALMERSTON himself as to the diplomatic skill and moral demonstrations which we find brought to bear upon the question.

The policy thus repeatedly avowed and in prominent instances carried out by the British Government, is consistent with another very important fact, in addition to others which I have referred to. To wit: That the Suez Canal project, which has been held up even in New-York, in competition with the Panama route for the channel of commerce between Asia and Europe is repudiated and opposed by the British Government.

General HERRON is engaged in a negotiation with General CASS upon the subject of our relations with the Government of New-Granada, and there is no doubt that it will come to conclusion in accordance with the just views of this Government.

IMPORTANT INDIA RUBBER DECISION—UNITED STATES TROOPS FOR MINNESOTA—SAILING OF THE AMERICA, ETC.

BOSTON, Monday, July 27.

In the United States Circuit Court this morning, his Honor, Judge STRONG, delivered the opinion of the Court, at great length, in the matter of the demurrer to the Bills in Equity of the Congress Rubber Company, against some dozen of the importers, dealers and manufacturers of vulcanized India rubber elastic fabrics. In consequence of this decision several of the parties consented to a final decree, they declining to contest the injunction heretofore obtained against them any longer. In these cases, which have not been thus finally settled, injunctions have been entered by order of the Court.

The Second Company of Artillery, under command of Major HAYES, left Fort Independence, this Harbor, this morning, enroute to Minnesota from the War Department, for Fort Ridgely, Minnesota.

The Royal Mail steamship America will sail from this port for Liverpool via Halifax, as soon as Wednesday. Her mails close at 10 A. M.

The thermometer, to day, reached 90° in the shade.

Buffalo Firemen's Excursion.

ELMIRA, Monday, July 27.

Eagle Hose Company No. 2, of Buffalo, was received here to-day by five companies of the Elmira Fire Department. No. 2 was escorted to the Brainard House, where they partook of a splendid dinner. At 8 o'clock this evening a supper will be given the Company by the Fire Department and citizens, after which there will be a torchlight procession, and No. 2 will leave for Philadelphia.

Fire at Hastings, Minnesota.

DUNFORD, Monday, July 27.

A fire broke out at Hastings, Minnesota, on Sunday morning, destroying the stores of MACANLEY and TICKNER, J. S. BELDON and S. S. HOWES; also several smaller buildings. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Loss $15,000; insurance small.

Death of Capt. Henry of the Navy.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, July 27.

Capt. HENRY, of the Navy, died, last night, at York, (Penn.) He was on the retired list.

Payment of the Metropolitan Police.

ALBANY, Monday, July 27.

The Comptroller states that the Shoe and Leather Bank of New-York, and the Mechanics' Bank of Brooklyn are to receive the deposit of funds for the payment of the Metropolitan Police.

The Indian Troubles.

CHICAGO, Monday, July 27.

The latest advices received from the Sioux Agency, state that the hostile demonstrations of the Indians are over, and that the Sisseton tribe are to receive their annuities.

Disaster to the Bark Vermont.

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Monday, July 27.

The American bark Vermont, MARSDEN, hence for Hull, is at anchor off Big Mud Island, near Cape Sable, with bottom damaged and rudder gone. Possibly she may be brought to the main land.

The Conover Contempt Case.

Before the Referee, Henry Hilton, Esq.

The testimony in this case was continued yesterday afternoon at two o'clock.

Daniel McGinn, examined by Mr. Brady—I reside at No. 128 Greenwich-avenue; I am a contractor; I was in the Supreme Court when Judge Peabody signed the search warrant in the case of Conover against Devlin on the 18th of July; I saw Mr. Brady hand some papers to Mr. Conover; I heard him announce to the Court that he had served the injunction on Conover; the announcement was made immediately on the signing of the warrant; I did not notice who had the warrant, because my attention was attracted to Mr. Brady; I know Mr. Marwin E. Brower by sight; I could not say whether he was in Court at the time the warrant was signed; I saw him in Court that morning; he might have been in Court when the warrant was signed.

Cross examined Mr. Field—I have no contract with Mr. Devlin; nor any contract with the Street Department; I did not do anything towards getting him appointed by the Mayor; I was standing at the Judge's right hand when I saw Mr. Brady come forward and serve the papers on Mr. Conover; I saw the Judge hand the search-warrant over to an officer; immediately upon that Mr. Brady rose, and put the paper over Mr. Conover's right shoulder; I cannot tell what the officer had done with the warrant in the meantime.

Patrick Devlin examined by Mr. Brady—I reside corner of Forty-eighth-street and Second-avenue; I am not related to Charles Devlin; I was in Court on July 18, when Judge Peabody signed the search-warrant in the case of Peabody against Devlin; I saw Mr. James T. Brady hand some papers to Mr. Conover on that occasion; I heard Mr. Brady announce to Judge Peabody that he had served an injunction on Mr. Conover; at the time he made that announcement, Mr. Marvin E. Brower was inside the railing, behind the lawyers; Mr. Farrington was outside the railing, to the left, near the gate; I was on the left hand side of the Judge, on the second seat, on the elevated platform; I did not see Mr. Brower or Mr. Farrington leave the Court; I noticed both of them after Mr. Brady had given notice of serving the injunction; I saw Mr. Brower stoop down and whisper to Mr. Conover; Mr. Field was speaking to the Judge on the subject of the injunction.

Cross-examined by Mr. Field—I am a carpenter; I worked for Charles Devlin before the 1st of May, on his own private property; I stopped working for him when the work was all done; I was down town on the 18th of July on private business, and I stopped into Court, as other folks did, to hear the cause; I was subpoened to come here; I have made an affidavit in this matter; I volunteered to Mr. Devlin to make it; I saw the judge sign both the warrants; he laid the last warrant by his side on the desk, and did not give it to anybody; he threw it towards Harry Bertholf, who took it up; I did not see Bertholf, Brower, Brady and Farrington at the same time; I mean I saw them at the same instant, but my eye did not cover them all at the same time; I saw Bertholf first after the Judge signed the warrant; I saw what he did with the warrant; I next saw Mr. Brady—I mean my eye caught Mr. Brower after seeing Mr. Bertholf, and then I saw Mr. Brady rise up and hand the papers to Mr. Conover; I could not see Mr. Brady and Mr. Brower in a straight line, but I could in a horizontal line; I mean I could take them in on the same range; Mr. Brower was between Mr. Field and Mr. Noyes; Mr. Brady was about eight feet back from Mr. Field; Mr. Conover was sitting on Mr. Noyes' left hand, close by the table; Mr. Brower was sitting beside the lawyers when I first saw him after the Judge had signed the warrant; when I next saw him, he was whispering to Mr. Conover; when I next saw him after that he was standing at the entrance of the Hall of Records with some books in his hand; I did not know Mr. Farrington at that time; a man was standing by the railing and two men behind me said that man was Farrington; this was before Mr. Brady announced the injunction; I next saw Mr. Farrington at the Hall of Records.

Here a diagram of the Court-room was drawn and shown to witness, who marked out the places occupied by himself, Mr. Brower, Mr. Field, Mr. Brady, Mr. Sickles, Mr. Noyes and Mr. Conover.

Cross-examination continued—Mr. Conover was sitting sideways to the Judge when Mr. Brady served the injunction; Mr. Field was sitting about three feet from the right end of the table.

Recrossed by Mr. Brady—I saw Mr. Bertholf hand the search warrant to Mr. Field, Sen.; when I saw Mr. Farrington at the Hall of Records, he was in the Street Commissioner's office; this was about fifteen minutes after Mr. Brady had announced the injunction; when I saw Mr. Brower with the books in his hand, I do not know where Farrington was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Field—When Bertholf handed Mr. Field the warrant, I do not know whether Mr. Field rose to receive it or not; to the best of my opinion Mr. Field had the warrant in his hand when Mr. Brady rose; I think Mr. Field rose to speak when Mr. Brady made the announcement; I did not observe what Mr. Field did with the warrant.

Eugene Hagan examined by Mr. Brady.—I reside at No. 100 Greene street; I was lately a policeman, and do not know whether I have been dismissed or not; I was in Court when Judge Peabody signed the search warrant in the matter of Conover against Devlin; I saw Mr. Brady hand some papers to Mr. Conover; I heard him announce that he had served an injunction on Conover; when that announcement was made, Mr. Merwin E. Brower was in Court; he sat in the rear of Mr. Field and Mr. Noyes; the Judge, after signing the warrant, laid it on the desk; I saw Bertholf take it, and walk towards Mr. Field; I do not know John R. Farrington by sight.

Cross examined by Mr. Field—I do not know whether Bertholf gave the warrant to anybody before Mr. Brady served the injunction; I was sitting on the west side of the Court room, on a line nearer the Judge than Mr Brady or Mr. Sickles sat; I do not know whether Mr. Brower had received the warrant and left the Court room before Mr. Brady rose to serve the injunction, but I think he had not; (the diagram was shown to witness, for him to say whether the position of Mr. Field, Mr. Noyes, Mr. Brower, Mr. Brady, Mr. Sickles and Mr. Conover, was correctly laid down); I think Mr. Noyes sat to the right of Mr. Field; the positions of Mr. Brady and Mr. Sickles are correct; Mr. Field, Jr., was at the left of his father; Mr. Brower's position is correct; he sat in the rear of Mr. Field and Mr. Noyes, but between them; after the Judge signed the paper, he laid it on his right side; as Bertholf stood when he took the warrant, Mr. Field was nearest to him; Mr. Brady rose to serve the injunction on the moment that Bertholf handed the warrant; I saw Mr. Bertholf take the warrant, and I saw Mr. Brady rise and go towards Mr. Conover; Bertholf stepped down from the high desk from which he was standing, and went towards Mr. Field; he was six or seven feet from Mr. Field; I do not know if he had reached Mr. Field when Mr. Brady rose to sign the injunction; Mr. Brady was about eight or nine feet behind Mr. Conover.

This witness, having left his seat, and a conversation between the referee and the counsel having taken place in the meantime relative to adjournment, came back and stated that he wished to recall his former statement that the Judge, after signing the warrant, placed it on his right hand; he now wished to state that he laid it on his left hand.

To Mr. Field—Since my testimony was closed I talked with Mr. Patrick Devlin.

To Mr. Brady—I did not converse with him about my testimony; the explanation I have made is the result of my own reflections, and not of any conversation I have had with any one; Patrick Devlin and I talked of the Judge's position, and I told him that I thought the Judge laid the paper on the left side of his right hand; I did not say that the warrant was either on the left or on the Judge's right side.

Adjourned for argument at 5¾ o'clock.

MASSACHUSETTS MATTERS.

Nomination of S. H. Phillips—Mr. Goodrich's Renomination—The Democrats and Chance and Whitney—A New Paper—Gov. Gardner—Current Home Reform—The Disunion Convention—The Legislature, &c., &c.

BOSTON, Saturday, July 25, 1857.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times:

The Republican State Committee had a meeting on the 23d, and nominated SAMUEL H. PHILLIPS, of Essex County, for Attorney-General, vice THOMAS D. ELIOT, declined. Mr. PHILLIPS is the son of the late STEPHEN C. PHILLIPS, who was lost in the Montreal disaster, is about 30 years old, and is of a rank at the Bar much beyond his years. If any man can distance Mr. CLIFFORD, and the latter gentleman should not retire, Mr. PHILLIPS is that man. The Committee showed more sagacity than was expected of them in putting him up. The only thing to be wondered at is, that they did not take a Middlesex man. Of the six candidates on their ticket only three are from that County, and no less than three lawyers there living were named for the vacancy. One or two more resignations, to which the party and the public would be very resigned, would lend much to the improvement of the ticket, in more ways than one.

Mr. GOODRICH withdrew from the chairmanship of the Committee, and was succeeded by Mr. ABBOT, a wealthy leather dealer of Lynn, who has bled for the cause before now, and who is prepared to bleed for it again. It is capital policy to place rich and liberal gentlemen in such places, as it secures the payment of bills, than which nothing tends more to the preservation of a party's good name.

Mr. GOODRICH retires because he does not like Mr. BANKS' nomination, or something that that gentleman has said or done, or has failed to say or do, I don't exactly know which. He will publish a letter in a day or two on the subject, and then the public will know all about it. Mr. BANKS will have to answer him, and there will be something to keep the canvass alive. Were it not for these family dissensions it would be dull as a Kansas bulletin.

There is a good deal of conversation concerning a plan for bringing Mr. WINTHROP forward as a Union candidate—not, you will understand, to preserve the Union of the States, but to bring about a union of the various parties that are opposed to Mr. BANKS' election. The Democrats are in love with the idea and some of them say that they will contribute half the number of votes necessary to elect the gentleman, if the Know-Nothings, Whigs, and so forth, will raise the other half. How Mr. WINTHROP himself will look at the plan, we have yet to learn. It will not be very pleasant to him to know that the Democrats did not think of him until they had failed with a still more eminent Whig. They sent a Committee to no less a man than the eloquent and accomplished CHOATE, upon whose shoulders fell the broad mantle of WEBSTER. Mr. CHOATE received them with his usual urbanity, but declined the doubtful honor which they wished to confer upon him. He said that he could not entertain the proposition on any terms, and that Mr. BANKS was sure to be elected. There is no mistaking Mr. CHOATE's meaning, he always speaks so very much to the point, and so the Committee left him, probably with the thought that he was as sensible as he was eloquent. Democrats have too much sense themselves not to appreciate the same quality in others.

Mr. WINTHROP would probably make a better candidate for the Know-Nothings to unite upon with Democrats, than Mr. CHOATE, but it is by no means certain that the old Whigs would exert themselves in the former's behalf; and in the event of the contest being narrowed down to a fair stand-up fight between two parties, it is quite probable that the Whigs will hold the decision of that fight in their hands. They reverence the memory of Mr. WEBSTER, and they know that he did not like Mr. WINTHROP. Ask Mr. BD, of your City, what were the words applied to Mr. WINTHROP by Mr. WEBSTER during the latter's last illness. They were the reverse of complimentary. Whether they were deserved or not, is quite another matter; but the spirit that dictated them yet exists, and might be brought into our contest with even more effect than other spirits have had on the learned men of Cambridge.

On dit, that the Boston Daily Bee is about to pass into the hands of Mr. PETTEE, now one of its editors, and that it will then strike the Banks flag, and run up that of Governor GARDNER. The story is that all depends upon the power of the Gardnerites to raise the purchase money for Mr. PETTEE; and as the Governor alone is ably to do that without stinting his allowance of cigars and maraschino, the undertaking ought not to flag for the want of that kind of grease, which is gold, that alone can keep the political wheels going. But then the Governor loves dollars as well as dignity, and though the hope of getting General WILSON's place in the Senate may cause him to draw his purse-strings, the operation will be an exquisitely painful one. If he were sure of success, he might not be so slow; or if he could only pray with Justice-of-Peace Commissioners, would not he buy up all the papers in the United States? He distributes those Commissioners as LOUIS PHILLIPPE used to distribute ribbons of the Legion of Honor—in showers.

I am told that the radical Republicans have been discussing the subject of establishing an organ here. They attribute their failure to obtain control of the State Convention to the want of a paper at the headquarters of Massachusetts opinion. The Convention was called at an early day for the purpose of enabling them to rule it, circumstances apparently favoring their designs. Several country papers were with them, and things looked well; but when the Convention met it was soon made clear that they had been playing Peregrine's part, and their chickens were not hatched because their milk, the sale of which was to produce the capital requisite for the investment of eggs, had been spilt. The country papers, with an exception or two, all went over to the support of Mr. BANKS. The Boston press has a sort of metropolitan character, and guides that of the country; and though the city will not give Mr. BANKS a great support in the shape of votes, its journals will render him—have rendered him already—good service. Even those which oppose him have sided in this way to advance his cause, for their opposition helps create the opinion that the man who is so warmly objected to by hunker organs must be the man for the people, if he is not the man of the people. The radicals are probably right in believing that their position was and is weakened because they have no central organ, and the knowledge that to their own lack of sense is such a want attributable, must tend to make their reflections peculiarly pleasant. That they would have prevented Mr. BANKS' nomination, through the aid of a Boston organ, is scarcely to be supposed; but they would have made a better fight if they had had such an instrument, and would have been more considered than they now are. They are disposed to treat themselves to the luxury of a paper, though experience has taught them that it is of the costliest description, and to be had only by the rich, like peas at Christmas. A sum of money that would once have sufficed to set up a paper would now be considered a mere bagatelle; and this fact may cause the plan to be abandoned, as until now it has prevented its being seriously talked of. Yet there is no saying what a few determined, sincere men may not do, when they have money, and are disposed to use it freely. The radicals, unlike most other radicals, are rich, and are more ready at spending their own money than they are desirous of getting that of other people.

Some Custom-House changes have been made in this State. Mr. JOSSELYN has been removed from the office of Surveyor of the Ports of Salem and Beverley, and the place has been conferred on a venerable Whig, named DONAX, father-in-law of Mr. Assistant Secretary of State APPLETON. The place is one of more than ordinary interest, as being that from which Mr. HAWTHORNE was ejected in President TAYLOR's time, and which ejection caused the publication of "The Scarlet Letter." JOSSELYN is one of those persons who have hitherto managed to hold office under all sorts of parties, but the Buchanan Administration is inexorable as death, and will but spare any one who has had relations with the Free-Soilers, which was Mr. JOSSELYN's case as often as he could make anything by it.

A parcel of fools—PARSON HIGGINSON, FRANK BIRD, GARRISON, and one or two others—have issued a call for a disunion Convention, to be held in the Autumn. This may do for people at a distance to talk about, and I should not wonder if, in South Carolina, it reminded men of the Hartford Convention; but here it doesn't even so much as excite a languid smile. People can't laugh at it, for the whole matter is too ridiculous to allow of one treating it to any thing so respectable as mirth. The call is as pompous as the address of the Tooley-street sailors, and the bedlamites who sign it undoubtedly think the eyes of the world are on them; but if they are so very set upon it, it is only because men look, some pityingly and some derisively, on willful fools. The best proof that can be had of the excellence of our institutions, and therefore of their strength, is the contemptuous forbearance with which this invitation to participate in moral treason is regarded. There is nothing that demands the application of violent remedies, and therefore men are at liberty to advocate the use of such remedies. Were there really any occasion for the meeting of such a convention, the proposition to call it would timely put the country into convulsions. As it is, no one thinks of the call deserving the serious attention, though some may wonder at the vanity of men in signing it.

The Legislature has been in session for twelve days, and all the time it has been bewildering away at the county apportionments of Representative and Senatorial districts, without, however, having succeeded in getting the thing into shape. It is hoped, however, that they will complete their work on Tuesday, and get up by Monday or Tuesday. When their work is all have been done, I will give you an account of it; at any attempt to do so now would be to throw away time and room, as they are likely to undo in the afternoon what they do at the morning session.

We are in the condition of the Oriental shepherds, who, praying for a shower, Providence sent the Euphrates through his pastures. It has rained in torrents nearly all the week, until there has been nothing left but mud, giving one a good idea of the Nile and its banks. The country, certainly, needed refreshing, but such a drain as it has had has done it quite as much evil as good. Ultraism seems to be as much the fashion in the clouds as it is under them.

Mr. John BROUGHAM had a splendid benefit at the Howard last night, not even the heat being able to keep away his numerous friends, who were, on that occasion, warm friends, in a literal sense. He made a very pretty speech at the close of the performance.

TREMONT.

ANOTHER KINK IN THE ARSENAL SALE.—It would appear that the City is likely to pay for the Arsenal property nearly double the price set upon it by the Legislature, through the short comings of our authorities. When the lands embraced within the limits of the Central Park were set apart for that purpose by a decree of the Supreme Court, the Common Council passed an ordinance directing all street-openings and other work under contract within the bounds of the Park to be suspended. For some of these suspended contracts the City has already suffered very liberal damages. Among the rest, Mr. PRENDERGAST had a contract for grading Sixty-fifth-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues—a very useless undertaking, says one who knows—the cost of which amounts to some $16,000. About $6,000 or $7,000 is now assessed on the Arsenal property for this improvement, and the Common Council has confirmed the assessment, making it a lien on the property. Some of the State officers have given out that they will dodge the payment, if possible; and as they are interested in securing the highest market price, they will most likely sell the Arsenal at auction, as now advertised, unless our Municipals "come down" in time.

JOHN SMITH, THE COOK OF THE FRANKLIN PIERCE.—M. DEVEGANZIEZE, the Portuguese Minister, has interested himself, with Mr. NASH, the counsel for SMITH, to seek the clemency of the President in behalf of the condemned man. The ground of application is understood to be the manifest injustice of hanging one man out of three or four, for a crime of which all, if any, were equally guilty. SMITH admits he stabbed the cook in the general fray, but says it was done in self-defence, and that he was then thrown overboard by the rest of the crew while yet alive; if the murder were committed, the deed was shared by those who threw him into the sea, as well as by SMITH, who alone is singled out for the full rigors of the law.

DESPERATE FIGHT.—There was a desperate fight early yesterday morning at the lager-bier saloon corner of Duane and Chatham streets, between a number of 20's runners and the occupants of the saloon. Deadly weapons were used on both sides, and many severe bruises were given and taken. The assailing runners were finally expelled, many of them badly injured.

CAPTAIN WILCOX OF THE VANDERBILT RESIGNED.—We learn that Capt. WILCOX, the able and popular commander of the steamship Vanderbilt, has resigned his command, in consequence of private business requiring his attention on shore. In the command of that steamship, Captain WILCOX has won the esteem, respect and confidence of the traveling public, and the owner of the Vanderbilt parts with him with regret. Captain WILCOX is succeeded in command of the Vanderbilt by Captain EDWARD HIGGINS, so long and so favorably known as commander of the steamship Hermann.

The Vanderbilt will sail on the 1st of August.

A HAY SLIDE.—The barge Lovett E. Mellen, of Hudson, was made a partial wreck at 9¾ o'clock yesterday morning, while going in still water at the pier foot of Harrison-street. The entire hurricane deck with several hundred bales of hay and straw, fell into the water and partially sunk. The accident was occasioned by the removal of a portion of the freight from the pier side, which in connection with the receding of the tide, the barge being aground, caused her to careen. The action of the barge in thus kicking up her keels, toppled over the stove, which set fire to the cabin, but the flames were extinguished without much damage. The cook was nigh going over with the avalanche.

Another Firemen's Riot in Baltimore—One Man Shot.

From the Sun of Monday.

About 11½ o'clock on Saturday night there was another fearful riot in Gay-street, near the Belair Market, in which a young man named FREDERICK W. BARTHOL was shot, and Sergeant EVANS, of the Police, and officer RIDGEWAY were hurt with bricks. An alarm of fire was sounded by the bell of the Vigilant Fire Company, and several of the companies ran to that vicinity, but, being unable to find any cause for the alarm, again started homeward. The Independent went up Front-street to Gay, followed by the Lafayette Company, and it was then feared there would be trouble. The Police made an attempt to turn the Lafayette down High-street, but did not succeed. At the corner of Front and Gay streets a brick was thrown, which struck a young man named ROBERTS in the face, inflicting a severe wound. When the Independent Company reached the intersection of Gay and Exeter streets, they put their suction into the house, and the Lafayette passed up Gay street.

At the corner of Gay and Lexington, a fight threw, each party charging the offence on the other; but that was the signal for a sanguinary conflict, which raged fiercely for several minutes, during which time pistols were also freely used. Some fifteen or twenty of the members of the Independent were standing on the corner, when a young man named ALEXANDER RAMSAY stepped from behind the Lafayette suction and fired three barrels of a revolver at the crowd and snapped the cap of the fourth barrel. A young man named FREDERICK W. BARTHOL received a shot in the breast, which glanced and, passing around the ribs, or through the chest, came out on the right side. Officer JOSHUA KIDD, who was near, saw RAMSAY fire the pistol, and at once gave chase, when the weapon was thrown away. He ran up to the corner of the Belair Market, but soon returned, when the officer took him into custody and conveyed him to the Middle District Police Station.

The fight was renewed, and on the vacant lot near by and in East street the bricks flew thick and fast. Sergeant W. H. H. EVANS was struck on the arm and hip, the last of which produced a painful wound. Officer W. RIDGAWAY was also struck on the arm and badly hurt. The parties then ran up to the corner of Mott and Gay streets, when the battle was continued, without, however, doing any harm. At the corner of Asquith and Orleans streets there was another conflict, but the prompt interference of a sufficient police force soon separated the combatants, and prevented further mischief. The police, besides RAMSAY, arrested WM. VOLANDT and JOHN CLARK, all of whom were yesterday taken before Justice MEARIS and committed to jail for trial—RAMSAY in default of $1,500 bail, and VOLANDT and CLARK in default of $1,000 bail each.

Subsequently, at a fire in Lloyd-street, the same companies met, and when the Independent started down Baltimore-street, towards Exeter, they were followed by the Lafayette, who left their suction standing in the street. The police, however, were on the ground and prevented any further outbreak. Yesterday morning young BARTHOL was taken to the Infirmary for proper surgical attention. The riot in Gay-street created intense excitement, a number of females being in the street at the time going from market. They sought shelter from the flying missiles, and none were injured that we could hear of.

Terrible Locomotive Explosion.

From the Syracuse Journal, July 24.

The locomotive Binghamton, which drew the freight train that left Binghamton yesterday at 2:45 P. M., exploded about half a mile north of Chenango Forks, about 5 o'clock, instantly killing the fireman, one of the brakesmen, and very badly, if not fatally, injuring the engineer. The engineer, GEORGE M. MYRES, of this city, and son of DAVID MYRES, was terribly burned and mangled. His right arm is broken in three places, his left is badly scalded, the fleshy part all blown off, and his face and breast terribly burned. It is feared that both of his eyes will be destroyed. His clothes were all blown from him, except the waistband of his pantaloons. We learn that this morning he is still alive, and some hopes of his recovery. He has had his senses during the whole time. Dr. SHIPMAN went down this morning to take the unfortunate man under his care. Mr. MYRES is a single man.

The fireman, DELOS COMSTOCK, was almost instantly killed, his body being thrown upon the embankment. He breathed about three hours after the accident, but was totally unconscious. He had been on the road only about six weeks. He leaves a wife and three children, who are now visiting about 20 miles from Watertown. His father lives in Manlius, to whom a messenger was sent, informing him of the fatal accident which had befallen his son.

The brakeman, RALPH SHEWER, was instantly killed. He is a single man, and came from Hartford, Cortland county. He was found lying by the side of the fireman. He got on to the engine at the Forks, with another brakeman who belonged to the same train, and did not go back to his post as did his comrade, but stood talking with the fireman and engineer.

The stone-house on the engine was blown into a thousand fragments, and the smoke-pipe thrown upon the embankment. The locomotive was detached from the tender, and ran about the length of the train after the explosion. No cause has yet been given for the accident.

The Hoboes Corpse and Coroner Jackson Etc.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Several of Saturday's morning papers contained a report of certain proceedings in the hearing of a hobo's corpse, had before Recorder SMITH, which are in several respects erroneous, and in which material facts have been suppressed, to my disadvantage and injury. And as you have not published any report in your paper of the matter, I desire to communicate through you to the public some facts, which will serve not only to the justification of my conduct, but to establish the truth. In a matter where no ordinary efforts have been unscrupulously made by interested parties to manufacture public opinion and place me in a false and unfavorable view.

In the first place, I am incorrectly charged with committing an assault upon Mr. BARRUM. Take I deny, though it is true that he made a complaint against me, but I can prove by disinterested persons who witnessed the whole occurrence which gave rise to this charge, that what I did was done in self-defence, that I was assaulted first by my brother-in-law when attempting to open the carriage door to speak to my wife, who was sitting in a close carriage, and was violently forced away by them. I finally succeeded in my efforts and accompanied her into Court. I was nominally arrested, it is true, but immediately gave bail and was discharged.

For a right understanding of the case it is proper that I should publish a few facts, without which my true position cannot be correctly apprehended. My wife had been placed in the Bloomingdale Asylum, by warrant issued in the usual manner upon the sworn certificates of four competent physicians, one of whom (Dr. SAXON) is the physician of her mother's family, another (Dr. OGDEN) distinguished for having made insanity his specialty, now is, and has been for many years, connected with institutions for the insane, and was called in at her mother's request to attend my wife, all of whom concurred in the opinion of the necessity and propriety of putting her there, where she was not, as the counsel asserted, as a public or pauper patient, but she was supported there in a suitable and comfortable manner at my expense. She was sent there for such medical treatment as could not be so advantageously procured in my own house, under the advice of those physicians, whom both her family and myself had consulted, because the advantages proffered by the Asylum surpassed and outnumbered such as could be procured at home, and because it was thought that the circumstances would then be much more favorable for her recovery. These physicians, many months ago, made known to her family the real nature and extent of her derangement, and advised that her restoration would be greatly promoted by, if indeed it was not absolutely dependent upon, placing her in an institution established for the treatment of such patients.

The first movement in this direction was made about nine months ago, when the first of the three commitments alluded to by their counsel was obtained by me in pursuance of such advice, in conjunction with one of these brothers, who then cooperated in my efforts to promote her health; but I was reluctant then to act upon this advice, and deferred putting her there, as I then hoped that we might yet be spared the sacrifice of feeling which must be made, even under a conviction that it was for the ultimate good of those thus placed in the Asylum. Notwithstanding these facts, which can be abundantly proved, if they are disputed, when time had further demonstrated the wisdom of the physicians and the fallacy of that delay which was prompted by a mistaken sympathy, I adopted that course which before had their sanction and approval, and which I deemed for her good; and scarcely had I placed her at Bloomingdale before they evinced their opposition, and they determined to effect her discharge, and if possible in no other way, to procure it through the ingenuity of counsel to pick some flaw in the regularity of the commitment, and for that purpose this writ was obtained.

When a notice of the issue of the writ was served upon Dr BRAM, the Resident Physician at Bloomingdale Asylum, Mr. BERRIAN told him they would waive the production of her body at the hearing before the Recorder, and I was accordingly notified by Dr. BRAM that he would not be obliged to have her personally present before the Recorder. My surprise may well be imagined when, as I was standing in the street, in conversation with several friends, I saw the carriage driven up in front of the Rotunda, on the opposite side of the street, in which they had brought my wife, contrary to their previous notice, and by this means they found an opportunity to make an assault upon me in her presence, and thus exposed her not only to the cruel observation of a curious crowd, but risked the chance of very serious if not permanent injury to an unoffending woman, and she too a sister; and gave publicity through the press to a domestic misfortune, from which a sane man might be expected to shrink unless he was a natural-born fool. This is the way these "blood relations" cherish her, and manifest that natural affection for her which their counsel contended they alone possessed; for he said "the marital rights of the husband were gone the moment his wife became insane, and it was not expected that he would extend to her his affection." Is may be that he was employed to propagate a doctrine so base that it ought to shame even a debauchee, a proposition that would degrade and disgrace a Mormon or a Turk; but I have no fear that it will spread far or meet with approbation in this community.

I regret extremely the necessity of being thus brought into public notice by a misfortune which might have been unobtrusively borne had it not been for the mistaken kindness (le charity shall I call it) of her relatives, and I trust that experts statements on either side will not be allowed unfavorably to affect public judgment until established by competent evidence before a judicial tribunal.

Board of Health.

DEPTH OF WATER IN NEW ANCHORAGE.

At the Board of Health, on Saturday, the following communications were received:

To the Honorable, the Commissioners of Health, of the City of New York:

The undersigned would respectfully represent to your Honorable Board that he is master of the Bark Oakland, which arrived at Quarantine from Havana on the 20th inst., laden with sugar and tobacco, and having lost one man on the passage, and having sent another to the Marine Hospital.

The Oakland, by order of the Health Officer, now lies at the lower Quarantine anchorage; and this appeal is made to your Honorable Board, to be allowed to bring the said vessel to the proper anchorage, for the reason that she draws of 16½ feet of water, and is anchored in 21 feet, and therefore sure to pound her bottom, and perhaps destroy herself and cargo, in case of a slight storm.

Respectfully,
ARTHUR HUNTER.

The application was referred to a Committee, consisting of Messrs. PHILLIPS, MILLER, and ROCKWELL.

The Committee had received and present the following communication:

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE REMOVAL OF QUARANTINE STATION, No. 28 William-street, New-York, Wednesday, July 22, 1857.

To Messrs. Wm. Rockwell, James S. Phillips, Jeremiah Miller, Committee of Commissioners of Health:

GENTLEMEN: Your communication of this date, with accompanying note from ARTHUR HUNTER, Esq., Master of the bark Oakland, is received.

In reply, we beg to refer you to the notice of the new anchorage ground which was duly published in several of the newspapers. Within the limits described by said notice you will find by reference to the United States Coast Survey Chart, there are 21 feet of water shown at low tide. This would seem quite sufficient for any vessel drawing 16½ feet of water.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE HALL, EGBERT BENSON, C. V. BROWNE, } Commissioners for removal of Quarantine Station

Note from D'Angelo.

A Whitewashed Pleasure.—About 9 o'clock on Saturday evening an infant, some six weeks old, was found at Father Mooney's door, at the corner of Eight-street and Avenue B. The child was comfortably dressed, and accompanying it was a bundle of extra clothes and a note, directed to Father Mooney, [illegible] very good hand, the substance of which was as follows:

"Reverend Sir: It is very hard for a mother to part from her little baby, but I am compelled to do so, as I cannot support it, but if you be so kind as to find some one to take care of it, I will give all I can, and for its support. I would gladly send $5 a week, but I know anybody knew my feelings in this way, my darling little baby. It is not christened, but I would like it named Mary Catharine. Good-bye, my poor little baby."

The reverend Father Jim Mooney, attached to the Eighth Ward Station-house, took the infant and promised to take care of it until Monday morning, when it will be delivered to the Governors of the Asylum.

The Case of Fitzh Dwyer, the Alleged Counterfeiter, and Passer of Counterfeit Money.—The case of Fitzh Dwyer, who was arrested some time ago, charged by Amos Cuney, his father-in-law, with having in his possession a series of counterfeits, and with having passed a counterfeit bank-bill, was [illegible] before Justice Davison, by the [illegible] of Mr. Cuney, who testified that he received the bill in question from his son-in-law, and that he had given him money with which to pay his expenses in this city, and that he had no money, and they then searched him, and found a bill which he said was good, and they then left him, and he was arrested. They were taken to the Second District Police Court and locked up for trial.

Lodgers in Lodging-houses.—This valuable article is really surprising, as it should, the cause. It is one of the neatest and most [illegible] invented, and we are satisfied it will always insure the wearer from a cold. The following certificates speak for themselves:

Buffalo, July 14th, 1857.

Gent: We take great pleasure in recommending our patent use, for the saving purposes upon the well-known newly invented Life-Preserving Jackets and Belts. We were present at the experiment you made in our harbor the other day, and we do consider it the most practical and best Life-Preserver we have seen in our harbor, capable of supporting a person in the water, for any length of time, at the same time allowing the arms and body free to act, to any extent desired. For boat service in a seaworthy sense, or pleasure purposes, we consider them most invaluable; for if a boat swamps, the men are all safe.

We are respectfully, yours,

[illegible] P. Dana, Chatham Board Lake Underwriters.
[illegible] H. Dakinson, Member Bd. Gen. Underwriters.
[illegible] P. Dodge, Secretary Board Lake Underwriters.
[illegible] Rawson, General Agent Ætna Ins. Co.
[illegible] Davenport, Marine Inspector.

Sag Harbor, June 10, 1857.

Capt. O. J. Sumner—Dear Sir: I have executed many experiments with the Life-Saving Jacket of your invention. I consider it the best article for life-saving purposes that have yet come out, for the public have to have confidence with the jackets on the sea board. I am of opinion that they would be invaluable on the use of the life-saving stations, as they would be additional means of rescuing shipwrecked persons. Very respectfully,

J. M. Schellenger,
Superintendent, &c., Coast of Long Island.

Murray & Lanman's Florida Water—Delicate from the flowers of a land where Ponce de Leon found the fabled fount sought for the fountain of eternal youth, this refreshing perfume is worthy of its origin. Its use is a luxury, but unlike the Severe, the fragrance survives through all seasons. Sold by D. T. Hannan & Co., wholesale druggists, No. 69 Water-street, New-York, and by all druggists, at 50 cents per bottle.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment.—Public opinion is compelling the hospitals throughout Europe and America to adopt this famous alterative, purgative and restorative medicine. Sufferers from constipation, costiveness, dysentery, diarrhœa and liver complaint, who have been under treatment for years, recovered by its continued use. The Ointment is also a specific remedy for cutaneous diseases.

Purdy's National Theatre.—The same extraordinary performance of last evening is to be repeated on this theatre to-night, viz. "Ida May," in which Miss Cushman and Mr. and Mrs. Howard appear, and the performance of the "Manager's Dream," the fairy pantomime of the "Golden Axe" and drama of "Silver Cross." Who could wish for a better bill?

Lowell Merino Undergarments, all sizes, for sale at exceedingly low prices, to make room for new goods. Also, a full assortment of McLaughlin's Wholesale and Retail Clothing Emporium, Nos. 349 Greenwich-st., and 2 Cortlandt-st., ready made to measure of the best material in the best style.

Our Own Best!—The gold medal of the Paris Exposition of 1855 was awarded to the Hungarian Wines of A. Schwarzen & Co.

Fran. S. Cozzens,
No. 12 Warren-street, New-York.

Five thousand yards second-mourning Muslins to be closed this day, at eight cents per yard. T. M. James, No. 466 Sixth-avenue, near Eighth-st.

Great Excitement.—A perfect rush for those splendid remain Dresses, for $1, at T. M. James, No. 466 Sixth-avenue, near Eighth-street.

Parrott's Patent Champion Fire-Proof Safes, 108, 110, 112 and 114 Water-street, and No. 101 Beekman-street, near Murray-street, New-York.

Sulphur and a Preparation of Iron compounded with sugar, forms J. T. Stafford's Blood purifying Powders. They are very agreeable to the taste and do not shake by purge; they are very pure on the tongue at bed-time, are soon dissolved and distributed into the stomach, where they quickly reach the digestive organs, enter the circulation and purify the blood. Price of a package of 12 Powders, $1; of a package of 20 pkts., $1 50. Sold at No. 16 Ann-street, near side of the Astor, and by all druggists.

LONG ISLAND.

Jamaica in Brooklyn.—The rumor, which seems to be pretty well founded, that the Grand Jury of Kings County, acting upon the suggestion of the Common Council, have presented as a nuisance the running of steam locomotives upon Atlantic-street, has added new fumes to the fire of excitement all along the line of the Long Island Railroad. The great topic in the cars, at the depots and in the newspaper and country gossiping, is the attempt to drive the locomotives upon the Railroad to go by horses instead of steam for an indefinable distance outside of and within the limits of Brooklyn. The National Guardsy assert that it will be equivalent to the ruin of the business of the road to prohibit steam locomotives from coming to the Atlantic-street Depot, inasmuch as the grade here is of such a character as to make it impossible for freight cars to be drawn up the grade and through the tunnel by horse power; the whole freight business of the Road would, therefore, be ruined. All that vast amount of material now sent by rail for the construction of the Water Works would have to be transported by teams, which would increase the cost of freight upon the whole works to hundreds of thousands of dollars. They say, too, that everything is now done to protect the public against accidents, the cars being limited to a very low rate of speed within the city limits, a flagman stationed at every street crossing to give warning of the approach of the train by unfurling a red flag, while a man on horseback rides in front of the locomotive through the city to clear the track of all incumbrances, and warn off the people. But the end is not yet.

A Good Time.—The Williamsburg Industrial School, together with the Sunday School of the First Congregational Church, under the charge of Rev. S. S. Sumner, went on their fifth annual excursion on Friday, to St. Francis Wm, near Flushing. There were about seventy-five in all, among them the scholars, and several teachers from Judge Culver's and Mr. Hubbard's schools, which the children duly appreciated. A lovely shady grove, which was not down on the programme, was selected for the dinner, which was spread by the side of a spring, and which was partaken of by the children with a relish. Tables, benches, swings, and every thing else that could add to the enjoyment of the children, was provided, and they did not have many bright spots in their lives, and they know how to estimate all that came to them.

Police Superintendent's Report—For the Quarter.

Deputy Superintendent Folk, of the Brooklyn Police, has reported for the quarter ending June 30, 1857, to the Common Council.

From this document it appears that the whole number of arrests for felonies, misdemeanors and other offences, amount to 9002, being an increase of 429 to the number embraced in the report of the previous quarter. There were, during the quarter, 1692 persons accommodated with lodgings at the different station-houses, 241 lost children found, $1,079 45 taken from prisoners and returned.

Supposed Case of Yellow Fever.

From the Brooklyn Daily Times.

On Wednesday night Mr. Lorine W. Gross, ship-joiner, and a member of Engine Co. No. 8, of No. 140 South Third-street, was taken ill. His friends sent for Dr. Ward, who attended him. It is asserted that Dr. Ward told the patient's mother that the disease was yellow fever. Mr. Brown, of the firm of Tuttle & Brown, corner of South Seventh and Fourth, hearing the rumor that the medical attendant had pronounced the case one of yellow fever, deemed it advisable to send for another physician also. Accordingly, he sent for Dr. Brady, who called to see the patient yesterday, but found he had expired shortly before. He said that the patient had every symptom of yellow fever, and was of the opinion that the man probably died with that disease. An undertaker had been called in, whom Dr. Brady warned not to bury the patient without a permit from Dr. Cleveland, the Health Officer, and enjoined him to notify the Health Officer of the case without delay. Instead of doing so, the undertaker, it is alleged, placed the body in a coffin forthwith, and had it taken off to Cypress Hills within four hours after death. After his return from Cypress Hills, he called at the Health Officer's house, and tendered a certificate from Dr. Ward, setting forth that the deceased had died of "bilious remittent fever."

The Health Officer, hearing of the case meanwhile, procured the services of a policeman and two darkies, and went to the house where the body lay. Everything about the case tending to the belief that the disease was really yellow fever, the policeman took to his heels and vanished, leaving the Health Officer alone with the darkies. The latter by Dr. Cleveland's direction took the straw mattress on which the deceased had slept, with the bed clothes, &c., and buried them in a vacant lot to avoid infection.

The deceased was a ship joiner by occupation, and was in the way of his business exposed to infection in repairing vessels which might have come from infected ports. The two last vessels he was employed on were the bark Abraham and the brig Sears, of New-York. We are unable to learn from whence these vessels last came into port.

The deceased's mother, we understand, now denies that Dr. Ward told her that the case was one of yellow fever. She admits that yellow fever was spoken of, and says that the Doctor said that the disease was one which down South they might call yellow fever, but he regarded it as bilious remittent fever.

There can be no question, if the above facts are as stated (and we have taken every pains to learn the truth) that the yellow fever is at last really in our midst. Whether the infection will spread is another question; but that it might have every chance of doing so the undertaker left the body from yesterday until to-morrow in the receiving vault, where persons are constantly passing in and out every day.

The Health Officer, we understand, intends to bring Dr. Ward before the Board of Health, for breach of the charter, which provides that the medical attendant shall report to him every case of contagious disease which occurs in his practice. Even if the case turns out not to have been one of yellow fever, it is contended that Dr. Ward has broken the law, by omitting to report the case as one of bilious remittent fever. The penalty incurred by the Doctor, if the charge is substantiated, is $250.

The undertaker, Mr. Hardenbrook, has also rendered himself liable to a penalty of $100, for interring the body without a permit. It is true he obtained a permit from the office of Dr. Cleveland, on Dr. Ward's certificate, but this was after the interment had been actually effected.

Union Course, L. I.—Trotting, Saturday, July 25. Match $2,000, ten miles out, to wagons weighing 285 pounds:

D. Pivver, b. g. Andrew Sheehan.....1
S. McLaughlin, b. g. Gen. Darcy.....dist.
Time—44:51.

Sheehan was the favorite at $100 to $60. Darcy won the pole, they had a good send off, going round the lower turn Darcy broke and fell off, he appeared very unsteady, Sheehan passing the score about three lengths ahead in 2:56. On the second mile Darcy fell off more; time 5:54. Sheehan led the third mile in 3:58, Darcy after passing the score came to a stand, dead tired, his driver pulled him up, Sheehan the winner of the race was very lame previous to starting, he is a game horse and it carried him successfully through. Darcy in point of speed had the advantage outstanding bottom; the horse was in no condition, having a heavy cold. The attendance was good, and considerable money changed hands. Darcy's friends "fell heavy."

Brooklyn Police.—In the Brooklyn Common Council last evening, the Police Committee reported in favor of fixing the number of Police at 196 men—the same as now on duty.

Alderman Del Vecchio presented a minority report in favor of reducing the force to 128 men.

After some discussion, the majority report was adopted—yeas 17, nays 4.

NEW-JERSEY.

Trial Trip of the John S. Darcy.—Yesterday at 3 o'clock P. M., the new steamboat John S. Darcy went on her trial trip down the bay shortly to Sandy Hook and up the Hudson about a short distance with about 400 guests on board. The occasion was one of unalloyed enjoyment.

The John S. Darcy is 130 feet in length, 22 feet beam under the guards, 60 feet over the guards, and [illegible] feet in hold. She is 700 tons burthen, carpenter's [illegible] longer than the boats B. R. or [illegible] and the Golden, which up to the commencement of this boat were the largest ferry-boats running on any New-York ferry. The Darcy was built by G. D. Morris, of Red Hook, and the joiner work was done by John R. Tenny, of Hoboken. The upholstering work was done by R. B. Ramsa & Co., of Jersey City. The engine was built by Reed & Sherrerd, of Jersey City. It is of 400 horse power, 42 inch cylinder and 11 feet stroke. The boiler is 22 feet long and 9 feet in diameter. This is the largest engine in use on any of the ferry-boats. The Darcy will at once commence duty.

A Runaway House and Money Lost.—Late on Friday evening last, Mr. Thomas Field, a grocer and butcher, doing business in Newark, came to the Jersey City Ferry on his way to New-York to purchase supplies. He had been accustomed for several years to make these evening trips to New-York, and as he had been several times stopped on the road by highwaymen, he had latterly taken the precaution of concealing his money somewhere about the wagon, instead of carrying it upon his person. Upon this occasion his pocket-book, containing $610, was deposited for safety in the bottom of a half-bushel measure, which was nearly filled with oats, designed as a feed for his horses. Upon arriving at the ferry Mr. Field got down from his wagon and went a short distance away to get hay, a [illegible] for the purpose of finding a ferry ticket, which was hidden among other cards and papers in his pocket. While thus engaged the horse suddenly turned about and started for home at a rapid pace. Mr. Field gave chase, but was unable to overtake him, and spent the remainder of the night in a fruitless search for the horse and wagon. On Saturday morning, he found his wagon in front of the Court House at Hudson City, but the horse was not with it, and has not since been heard of. The money was gone from the half bushel measure, and so were most of the oats.

Election of Officers of the Grand Lodge of I. O. of O. F.—The election for officers of the Grand Lodge of the State of New-Jersey, which was held in the lodges throughout the State on the 14th inst., resulted as follows:

Grand Master—D. B. Weikazer, of Cumberland.
Deputy Grand Master—Augustus W. Bell, of Morris.
Grand Secretary—John H. Phillips, of Mercer.
Grand Treasurer—Rescarrick M. Smith, of Mercer.
Representative to Grand Lodge of United States—Geo. W. Cassedy, of Jersey City.
For Grand Warden—No choice was effected, and the election of this officer will be made by the Grand Lodge, which meets at Trenton on the 5th August.

Military Encampment.—The National Guards of Hoboken, Capt. P. Van Houten, left yesterday morning for Hackensack, where they are to have a three days' encampment. To-day is to be a gala day with them, and mainly devoted to the reception and entertainment of their friends.

A numerous delegation from the other military companies of the County, and of officers from other sections of the State, are expected to be upon the ground, and a good time is anticipated.

The Introduction of Water.—The Board of Water Commissioners, of the city of Hudson, are pushing forward their plans for the introduction of Passaic water. Mr. G. H. Bailey, the Engineer of the Jersey City Works, is also engineer of the Hudson City branch of the work, and is receiving proposals from contractors, for doing the work necessary for distributing the water. It is expected that the thickly settled portion of the city will be supplied during the present year.

☞ But a few days remain in which to redeem property sold for taxes in Jersey City in 1855.

The Official Averages of the Banks in the City of New-York, for the week ending on Saturday last, July 25, the particulars of which are advertised by each Bank on another page of this paper, present, in the aggregate, the following changes from the previous weekly statement of Saturday, July 18:

Increase of Loans	$1,482,810
Decrease of Specie	637,754
Increase of Circulation	79,981
Increase of Undrawn Deposits	371,467

The statement is a satisfactory one. The addition to the Loan column is the consequence of the large addition to the Banking Capital of the City since July 1. The decrease in Specie is only one-third the amount exported during the week—a fact showing a very considerable income from the Domestic Exchanges. With the California arrival, this afternoon, of $1,458,043, the Banks begin the new week with something like fourteen million dollars in Bullion. We understand the Country-Bank balances partially increased last week. They are still much behind the corresponding period last season, particularly the balances of the Country Banks of this State. Including the Sub-Treasury and Clearing-House operations of the week, the following is the general

There is no change to-day in Money rates, or the general comfort of the supply. Foreign Exchange for the Boston steamer is not active, though the rates of last week are maintained; 109¾@9¾ on London; 5.17½@5.16¼ on Paris. The shipment of Gold by this opportunity will be a moderate one, not over $250,000, as far as we are advised at present. The California packet arrived this afternoon, sooner, by a day or two, than she was looked for. The steamer on the Pacific side left San Francisco on the 4th of July, with $1,872,584 in Gold. The New-York steamer delivers of this $1,458,043. The remainder goes direct to England from the Isthmus of Panama. The Panama Road brought over, in all, $2,986,458, including some parcels of Silver from the Mexican coast of the Pacific, which go direct to England. The mining near Lower California is satisfactory. The receipts of Gold Dust at San Francisco, coupled with a tame state of things in the general markets, had tended to make Money easier. Complaints are still made of excessive and indiscriminate shipments of Merchandise from the Atlantic cities.

On the Stock Exchange the Bears got hold of a rumor of a heavier fall in the English Funds, by the Quebec steamer, than subsequently appeared on the publication of the regular newspaper dispatches, and attempted to use this at the early Board. The connection in the cash sales and contracts made at the first call of the list, as compared with the closing bids of Saturday, was equal to a ¼@¾ ⅌ cent., but the whole of this decline, and more, was recovered at the afternoon Board, which left off extremely firm. The settlements in Southern Michigan were made at higher rates by 7¾ ⅌ cent. than have been known since the reopening of the transfers last Monday. The cash stock left off 38¾ ⅌ cent. New-York Central advanced to 88 ⅌ cent. Erie, after selling as low as 34¾, was 35 at the close. Reading the same as on Saturday. Cleveland and Pittsburg, 1¼ ⅌ cent. lower, on account of an absurd rumor that this is the Company with which Mr. McElrath, who suspended on Friday, is connected. Galena sold 91¾ ex dividend. The Chicago and Burlington half-yearly dividend is 5 ⅌ cent., payable 18th August. The transfers close at the Bank of Commerce on 31st July. Illinois Central Bonds reached par. Erie Convertibles of 1871 sold as high as 72 ⅌ cent. Ohio Trust 103, ex-dividend, cash. A seller's option was put out at 102, 30 days, 400 shares. The same parties sold some time since at 95 ⅌ cent. with the dividend on. The advance since is equal to 12 ⅌ cent. Panama and Toledo were firm at the close. The whole business of the day was only an average one, including the seller's contracts on the first call of the list. The upward tendency of prices is very decided, while the large differences paid out on maturing contracts, which were made in June, are weakening the power of the speculators against the market, who so recently bore such omnipotent sway in Wall-street. This is especially marked in Erie, New-York Central and Michigan Southern, which tell at the average rate of about 10 ⅌ cent. or $1,000 difference on every hundred shares.

We are not sure that we know the source or understand the purpose of certain statements in the Herald this morning, about the late change in the executive of the Erie Road, but we have ample authority for saying that they are severally, and as a whole, gross misrepresentations. The new President is, in no sense, the peculiar representative of the Bondholders of 1862, resident abroad, or of any other class of creditors. He heard of no meeting of these Bondholders in Berlin or any other place, or of their "great alarm" at the condition of the Company. He certainly returned on no mission on their behalf, but at the instance of the New-York Directors, who made him President on his arrival to represent the Stockholders. His predecessor was kind enough to facilitate the change.

We have the best authority for stating that Mr. McElrath's difficulties will, in no way, affect the Nassau Bank, of which he was merely the nominal President, having ceased active official connection with it nine months ago. Mr. Bladenburg, the Vice-President, has been acting President during the period mentioned.

Money Circular for Europe.

New-York, Monday, July 27, 1857.

Since our last advices of the 21st instant, the Stock market has been comparatively steady, though lower prices have ruled in the speculative securities. The more solid stock have varied but little, and in some cases have advanced. The decline in prices alluded to above, can partly be attributed to the natural reaction, after a sudden and important rise, but was chiefly owing to the shipments of Specie which were made during the week to considerable extent. At the close the tendency of prices was upward. In State Stocks there has been about the usual amount of business at a slight advance in rates. The principal sales were of Missouri 6s, Louisiana 6 ⅌ cents., Indiana 5 ⅌ cents., and Virginia 6 ⅌ cents., the last at a slight decline, the other at an advance upon last week's rates. California 7s we quote 8 ⅌ cent. lower. In City and County Bonds there has been but little doing. Some Cincinnati 6 ⅌ cents. (Municipal Bonds) and Brooklyn City Water Work Bonds have changed hands
